Astronaut Tells Dramatic Story Of Re-Entry With Manual Control After Electrical Failure

News In Brief

Dems Accused Of Torpedoing GOP

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican State Chairman Craig Truax says Democrats were attempting to "torpedo GOP precinct organization" when they cross-filed their candidates for the state Superior Court.

The Democratic candidates, state Sen. Paul W. Mahady of Latrobe and Philadelphia Judge J. Sydney Hoffman, cross-filed on the Republican ballot for the primary election Tuesday. The GOP candidates are incumbent Superior Court Judges Harold L. Erwin and J. Calvin Wright.

Bankers Urge Tax Reforms

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The president of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association said Sunday it was necessary for the Kennedy administration to "accept fiscal responsibility through curtailing expenditures" in order to set the stage for needed tax reforms.

William A. Lank told a news conference that the administration's tax proposals were "too recessive." He said they relied almost exclusively on stimulating consumption through a heavy emphasis on tax reduction for low income groups.

Search For Dead In Canal Crash

BELLE GLADE, Fla. (AP)—An all-night search for additional dead in the murky waters of an Everglades canal was halted Sunday and the death toll remained at 27 in possibly the worst highway tragedy in Florida history.

Thirteen children, five women and nine men, all Negro harvest workers, died when a bus hauling them home from the field sideswiped a truck and plunged into a 20-foot-deep canal. Fifteen managed to get out of the sinking vehicle and swim to safety.

JFK's Airplane Defies Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — President Kennedy's jet airliner streaked into Moscow on Sunday to set an international speed record for a nonstop flight from Washington.

The 5,004-mile flight took 8 hours, 38 minutes and 42 seconds and it answered a Soviet claim that the United States had no aircraft capable of flying nonstop to Moscow.

The U.S. Embassy said the plane flown by Kennedy's personal pilot, Col. James B. Swindal, 46, of Birmingham, Ala., averaged 580 miles an hour and set a total of 15 records en route.

Wants Probe Of Oil Industry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says congress "should take a good hard look right now at the developing monopoly in the oil industry."

Proxmire, in a statement Saturday, cited U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's report last week to the oil compact commission.

Kennedy criticized present control of oil supply as burdening indepesdent producers and refiners more than the big companies. "Orthodox antitrust enforcement action," Kennedy said, "could solve some industry problems stemming from the ownership of pipelines by big companies."

Powell Urges Negroes To Act

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., urged Negroes Sunday to step up their demonstrations against racial segregation.

In a fiery, half-hour speech to an estimated 2,500 persons, most of them Negroes, in Mackay Park, Powell unleased a barrage of criticism at what he called "black Uncle Toms — the greatest enemy of the black man" and at U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, whom he termed a "phony liberal."

Powell exhorted "upper-class Negroes and poor Negroes" to "march together" and "stand with your hands together and move forward."

OAS Action Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. Ambassador de Lesseps S. Morrison predicted Sunday the Organization of American States will act soon to halt the flow of funds, Communist agents and propaganda from Cuba into Latin America.

He said a report prepared by the OAS 11-nation vigilance committee on the Cuban subversion problem is ready for presentation and has been endorsed by the United States. Morrison is ambassador to OAS.

Felt Like Ignoring Little Green Light

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Astronaut Gordon Cooper said Sunday that he felt like ignoring a green light that indicated trouble with his spacecraft's automatic control system during his 22-orbit flight—but felt "it wouldn't just go away" if he did.

Cooper outlined the drama that followed the alarm at a jampacked news conference here.

"I had all the cockpit lights turned off," he said. "As I brought the morning light switch up, my .05G light was on."

The .05G light is designed to flash on when the spacecraft encounters the first indication of gravity buildup, 1-20th of a G, on re-entry.

If the light was correct, Cooper said, he already was re-entering the atmosphere. But ground stations confirmed this was not so because the spacecraft was maintaining its speed and course.

Cooper said the drama began during the 19th orbit over the Pacific Ocean, 28 hours, 30 minutes after blastoff.

"I thought at first I would just ignore it, and then I decided I'd better not. I decided it wouldn't just go away."

When it was determined that reentry had not started, Cooper said, "We conducted a number of tests with the automatic system.

"After these tests, the ground determined that I had lost all my automatic system up to the time the .05G light was to come on."

Manual Firing

This meant, he said, that he would have to fire his reverse rockets manually and use manual controls to get out of space down to the .05G point.

Then, shortly before the end of the flight, the astronaut said, an electrical inverter went out in the automatic system, wiping out all automatic controls.

He said they determined that he had lost the autopilot, Cooper said he decided to proceed on manual control.

"I thought I still had the re-entry portion of the auto pilot, but at 31 hours, 20 minutes I found that my main ASCS—Automatic Stabilization and Control System — inverter was running high on volts," he said.

Cooper said he made several tests and found that he had lost both the standby and the ASCS inverters.

"So then I decided I would re-enter completely without the autopilot," he said.

Then Cooper went into a description of the final, 22nd orbit.

Glenn Counted

"I oriented myself on the last night side and John Glenn counted me down to retro-fire. I punched the retros and they fired with a strong thumo. At this point, I did not like the slowness of the fly-by-wire, so I switched over to backup.

"It was getting a little musky on the controls and I applied the yaw rate."

Cooper said this was satisfactory.

"By this time there were a lot of burning particles coming past," he said. "One retro-strap sat there right in front of the window, and finally broke up and moved away.

"I noted the fireball was in fairly close but this really was no problem. I expected it to be there.

"Re-entry G's were no problem at all. The oscillation was not objectionable."

Cooper said that when he deployed the drogue chute, it opened with a "rattle, roar and a thump."

"The minute the big chute deployed, I noticed the helos—helicopters—were right there waiting for me and I got ready for impact," he said.

"Actually it was much easier than I anticipated."

Cooper told his story in the auditorium of a motel in the nearby missile community of Cocoa Beach — which the astronauts call their "home away from home." In a motorcade earlier, he received a rousing welcome from thousands who jammed into Cocoa Beach to cheer his return.

The auditorium was packed with newsmen from around the world. They have been covering the story since Cooper's Atlas rocket sent him aloft from the Cape last Wednesday on the start of his historic space journey.

Crash Victim Critical

MOUNT POCONO —Two automobile accidents Saturday sent four people to Monroe County General Hospital — one of them in critical condition.

The first accident at 2:45 p.m. five miles south of Mt. Pocono on Rt. 191 happened when a driver skidded on the wet road and struck a large tree, according to Mount Pocono State Police.

Both were taken to the hospital in the Barrett Township Ambulance. Stanley is listed as fair and Donald as satisfactory. Damage to the car totalled $300.

In the second accident at 11 p.m. on Rt. 611, one mile south of Mount Pocono, a car driven by Christopher MacInnes, 35, of Beechwood Ave., Lakeville, Mass., crossed a divider and struck a car going north.

The second car was operated by Wladyslaw Pietkin, 29, of 560 Pierce St., Kingston.

ISSUES CHALLENGE TO KENTUCKY — Pennsylvanian Gov. William W. Scranton poses atop a burro while holding a flintlock rifle at the state capitol in Harrisburg. He issued a challenge to Governor Bert Combs of Kentucky for a shooting match with the long rifles. Both states claim to have originated the frontiersman's long rifle. To Kentucky Governor

Scranton Delivers Rifle Challenge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton sent a band of horsemen to the Kentucky frontier Friday to deliver a challenge to a duel to Gov. Bert Combs.

The group of five men and three women received a round of cheers from the governor, state senators, and perhaps a thousand state employes and capitol visitors as they started their way through modern traffic to find the vestiges of the old wilderness trail to Kentucky.

A trio of folk singers from Old Fort Pitt (now known as Pittsburgh) played and sang (to the tune of "She'll be Comin' Round the Mountain):

"Oh the Daniel Boone long rifle is our own,
"Oh, the Daniel Boone long rifle is our own.
"Kentucky got too frisky,
"When they stole our—whiskey,
"But the Daniel Boone long rifle is our own."

The origin and present title of the famed frontier weapon is the subject of the "feud" between the two states.

Although Dr. S. K. Stevens, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, told the assembly Friday this was a "friendly altercation," the governor's challenge bristled with insults about Kentucky's claim to the long rifle and the reputation of her marksmen.

If the challenge is carred out—and it would hardly seem otherwise in view of the careful preparations of the publicity men in each state who arranged it—the two governors and a team of marksmen from each state will hold a pair of shooting matches with the long rifle in late summer or early fall.

Boone A Pennsylvanian

The match in this state will be held at the birthplace of Daniel Boone, a Pennsylvanian who became famous on the Kentucky frontier and thereby helped attach that state's label to the weapon.

Pennsylvania historians insist the rifle was developed here and feel, with some chagrin, that Boone probably carried a Pennsylvania-made weapon to the western frontier.

The team of riders started earlier this week from the Boone homestead near the city of Reading.

They expect to arrive in Frankfort June 4, following approximately the old wilderness trail through Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, and Kenrucky. It would be a 750-mile trip. The riders expect to average about 35 miles a day.

Birmingham Law Officers Look For Stolen Dynamite

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A large dynamite theft preceded night bombings that set off rioting by Negroes a week ago in this integration target city, Sheriff Melvin Bailey disclosed Sunday.

"There is plenty of loose dynamite in this area," Bailey said. The theft from a storage house of two cases of the explosive several days before the blasts has been under intensive investigation, he said.

Frightening Amount

"It's a frightening amount," the sheriff added.

Authorities had nearly 1,300 law enforcement officers on call this weekend as a guard against another strike by bomb tossers.

Birmingham's racial troubles were discussed briefly Saturday by President Kennedy and Gov. George C. Wallace, who met at a Tennessee Valley Authority ceremony in northern Alabama.

Neither disclosed what was said. Earlier, Wallace filed suit in the U.S. Supreme Court to bar use of about 3,000 federal troops which Kennedy has stationed at two Alabama bases for possible action in Birmingham.

The sheriff said two cases of dynamite was a large amount but he declined to be specific. There have been no reports of explosives stolen since the bombings, he said.

Federal, state and local authorities are investigating the blasts which ruined the suburban home of a Negro minister, the Rev. A. D. King and a Negro motel, headquarters for integration leaders.

No Progress

No substantial progress has been reported by investigators.

Several hundred state troopers, special deputies, city and county policemen held the uneasy city under tight security.

Col. Albert J. Lingo, state safety director and head of the highway patrol, said his force alone was about 700 men. This includes some deputized National Guardsmen.

"We'll be here indefinitely," Lingo said. That was the attitude of city and county authorities since the bombings and rioting a week ago caught them off guard.

Dawn found the troopers and deputies on duty eating breakfast in a park where Lingo has set up field headquarters in a mobile unit, a block from the bombed motel.

Exchange Greetings

In such an atmosphere and with the nation watching, Wallace and Kennedy exchanged formal greetings Saturday after the President stepped from his airplane at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

A surging throng of Alabamians cheered the President. And the governor, often called "the fighting little judge," remarked to a newsman later: "It was a tremendous and fitting reception. The people of Alabama really turned out to pay honor to the President."

Wallace and Kennedy talked in a helicopter flight to Huntsville, Ala., where the President spoke briefly. They sat together in a three-place seat.

"We discussed things briefly," was Wallace's comment at a news conference. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said the discussion was "not unfriendly."

Schoonover Boy Drowns While Fishing With Dad

ECHO LAKE — Ernest Fred Schoonover, five-year-old son of Ernest and Frances Courtright Schoonover, of Bushkill, drowned Saturday at 7:50 p.m. while fishing with his father on Echo Lake Farm Hotel property.

Monroe County Coroner John C. F. Foelker said, "The father reports that the boy had wandered off for about 20 to 30 minutes and he then decided to look for him.

"Joining in was a caretaker at the lake. We found the boy's fishing rod near the spillway but could not see out on the lake due to heavy fog moving in," Foelker continued.

"Bushkill Fire Co. and Marshalls Creek Fire Co. were called and so was an ambulance from the General Hospital of Monroe County. When firemen arrived searchlights were placed into operation and the boy's body was located about 10 feet from the shoreline," Foelker said.

He continued, "Immediate action was taken to revive the boy. He was placed in the ambulance and taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where he was pronounced dead on arrival by a doctor."

Coroner Foelker added, "I have issued an accidental death certificate and will continue the investigation with State Police from Stroudsburg barracks."

Schoonover is the fifth person to die a violent death in Monroe County this year, and the first victim of drowning.

He was born in East Stroudsburg and is survived, in addition to his parents, by one sister, Diane, at home; one brother, James B., at home; two step-brothers, George L. Morris, at home and Don R. Morris, serving with the U.S. Army.

Also, the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Vennie Ladlee, Bushkill, and paternal grandfather, Ell V. Schoonover, Bushkill.

The boy was a member of the Sunday school class of the Bushkill Dutch Reformed Church, Bushkill.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert Tulenko officiating. Burial will be in the Sand Hill Cemetery.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home today after 7.

Rep. Walter Has Cancer, Doctor Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reports that Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., 68, may have leukemia complicated by pneumonia, are neither confirmed nor denied by his physician, Dr. Darrell Crain.

Answering an inquiry Saturday, Crain said, "I can assure you he does not have the usual type of cancer. His condition is not critical. He is up and around."

Since January, Walter has spent intermittent periods in Georgetown University Hospital, undergoing treatment of what was described as a respiratory ailment.

Two weeks ago, he was reported in poor condition for two days, but his condition reportedly improved.

Cloak-Dagger Spy Ring Unfolds As 17 FBI Agents Testify In Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Testimony by a parade of 17 FBI agents has unfolded in federal court a tale of international espionage that might rival a cloak-and-dagger spy thriller.

Up to a point.

An American sailor is on trial on charges of selling military secrets to Soviet diplomats. His lawyer is scheduled to begin the defense Monday.

Counterspy Methods

FBI testimony last week disclosed some of its counterspy methods, including surveillance by closed-circuit television, as well as the sailor's signed statement on how the spying was done.

But was it all stealth, secret rendezvous and disguise?

Not quite.

FBI agents testified that the defendant, Yeoman 1.C. Nelson C. Drummond, 33, of Baltimore, walked in the front door of the Soviet United Nations mission office on Park Avenue at least three times and probably more.

In fact, Drummond related he was given a $1,000 bonus to say away from the place, an agent said.

Were the secret documents carefully selected?

An FBI agent testified that Drummond usually dipped into a file in his office and brought out a fistful of papers "in grab-bag fashion."

Was the money used for lavish living in exotic cities or perhaps salted away for a spree later on?

Bar Purchased

The FBI said Drummond bought a bar and grill in Newport, R.I—just a few miles from the naval base where he was stationed.

The Russians apparently did try to maintain some of the traditional standards of espionage.

Drummond told the FBI that when he was transferred to Newport from London, where he said he was first approached in 1958, he was contacted on a street, given $140, a black bag and one of a pair of matching cufflinks with a horsehead design.

He was told to walk south on Eighth Avenue from 125th Street on the first Saturday of the month after his arrival in New York. He was told the answer, "Yes, I will show you the way," to the person who asked him, "Can you show me the way to the Savon Ballroom?"

Drummond told the FBI he met his contact, exchanged passwords and matched cufflinks. The rendezvous apparently was made in Harlem because Drummond is a Negro.

He said arrangements were made that he would receive $400 to $500 a month. He also was paid bonuses of $1,000, $4,000 and $6,000 for which he claimed he "did nothing special," according to FBI agents. Their testimony indicated that the payments may have totaled $48,300 over four years.

OCEAN CITY, N.J. (AP)—Top Pennsylvania enforcement officers have met with a U.S. justice department official to coordinate their campaigns against organized crime and gambling.

State Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni, at his summer home here, said Saturday that he met with William Hundley, chief of the justice department's organized crime and rackets section, Wednesday. With him were E. Wilson Purdy, Pennsylvania's state police commissioner, and Capt. W. Jesse Stanton, commander of the state police detective bureau.

Alessandroni said the purpose of the meeting, held at his request, was "to set up a cooperative plan to combat organized crime and gambling in Pennsylvania. We discussed the situation in the state generally."

Noting federal anti-crime activities in the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Reading areas, Hundley said Alessandroni "assured us that they (the state officials want to get as active as we have been."

Doctors Should Act In Politics

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., says doctors can and should be more active in politics.

Addressing the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Osteopathic association Saturday, Scott said, "The degree to which doctors' ideas, aspirations and good judgment help shape the major decisions of our day depends entirely on the degree to which doctors are willing to participate in the political processes of the nation."

"Whether you like politics or not, you are in it," he said, "there will always be bills passed in legislatures affecting the welfare of our nation, the health of our people and the future of your own profession—whether you do anything about it or not."

Penn Hunters Second In Nation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pennsylvania had the second highest total of paid hunting license holders and gross cost of licenses and permits to hunters in 1962 among 49 of the 50 states, the interior department reports.

Figures on the number of paid license holders are used as a basis for distribution of federal funds for wildlife restoration projects.

Penjaylvania reported 981,527 holders and $4,253,715 cost.

Only Michigan was higher, with 1,080,506 holders and $4,528,228 cost.

Recreation Use Of Reservoirs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army engineers are checking into ways of increasing the recreational uses of federal resevoirs in Pennsylvania.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., asked the engineers in March to examine the recreational possibilities of the Tionesta reservoir in Forest County, the Youghlogheny reservoir in Fayette and Somerset counties, and a proposed reservoir in Erie County.

Yesterday he made public a reply from Gen. Jackson Graham, director of civil works.

A recreation plan is in preparation for the Prompton reservoir project in Wayne County, and studies for the Tionesta an Youghlogheny projects are scheduled for the fiscal year starting July 1, he said.

Tax Changes Hit 'Church Dignity'

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A leading Presbyterian layman said Friday that President Kennedy's proposed changes in the income tax law would violate "the dignity of the church."

J. Howard Pew, of Philadelphia, chairman of the board of the Sun Oil Co., said that there would be a "serious curtailment" in church financial support if Congress enacts the new tax program.

Pew is president of the United Presbyterian Foundation, an agency that gathers gifts to the church and allocates them.

He criticized proposed tax changes that would lump all income tax deductions together, and limit deductions to those above 5 per cent of adjusted gross income.

Rep. Francis E. Walter Reviews Work For Refugees

NEW YORK—Rep. Francis E. Walter spoke to the American Council for Judaism Philanthropic Fund annual dinner on May 1 here on the topic of "What the U.S. has done and is doing for refugees."

Walter reviewed the history of refugee-relief organizations from their start in World War II until the present time.

He noted that since 1945, the number of refugees that have entered the U.S. reaches the million mark. The money spent solely by the government on refugees is $1,344,465,131.

He reviewed the basic points of the Walter-McCarran Act, which allows a great number of refugees to come here.

Walter spoke on the ICEM—the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration — and noted that it is still working in Europe to settle the remanants of the millions that were uprooted by the war.

Walter stressed that the Attorney General now has the power to handle any sudden increase in refugees, and proponents of legislation calling for quotas of 50,000 are being unrealistic.

"We simply could not find refugees in that number even if we were to institute a special search for them by beating the bushes in an internationally organized battue," Walter said.

He reminded the organization that America has done and is doing great work for refugees, but that America comes first.

Scientists On DDT

Dr. Jerome B. Wiesner, President Kennedy's chief science advisor, told a senate hearing last week that the uncontrolled use of poisonous chemicals, including pesticides, could be a much greater hazard than radioactive fallout.

The basic reason for his warning is that there are many more chemical pesticides and household poisons around us every day there are roentgens of radioactivity. It is a more clear and present danger than a nuclear bomb attack or fallout from nuclear tests already conducted.

An eight man scientist committee headed by Dr. Wiesner and including David R. Goddard, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, made these points in a special report to the President:

Pesticides, particularly those dropped from the sky in aerial spraying programs like that carried out recently in Monroe and Pike Counties, have been found in our food, clothes, bodies, water, soil and natural surroundings.

They kill many beneficial insects and thousands of birds, fish and other wildlife.

Total eradication of gypsy moths is not realistic. Control, rather than eradication through mass spraying of the countryside, should be the government goal.

The government should shift from the mass use of chemicals to selective chemicals and to non-chemical control methods to avoid the known and unknown dangers to human beings and animals.

The scientists recommended that the 500 pesticides now registered by the government be approved by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, rather than the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

It was the USDA which carried out the mass spraying of DDT against gypsy moths in Monroe and Pike Counties.

They also recommended that present federal law regulating the registration of pesticides be expanded to cover protection of fish and wildlife as well as people and domestic animals.

Broader and tighter laws are needed to restrict government agencies in their use of poison and to restrict the careless use of approved chemicals by private citizens.

The scientists' report and recommendations, confirming the controversial findings of Rachel Carson in "Silent Spring," should lead to quick action by the Congress to protect the public where government agencies and pesticide industries have failed to do so.

The Allen-Scott Report

Castro's Guerillas

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Russia is using a fleet of several hundred high-speed "fishing boats" to export Fidel Castro's Communist revolution to other Latin American countries.

These ocean-going trawlers, which can sail rings around the world War II naval vessels of neighboring Caribbean nations, are transporting arms and Red-trained guerrillas to Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Guatemala and Brazil.

The "fishing boats" — constructed so they can be quickly converted for military use — have a carrying capacity of 150 to 200 passengers, or 300 to 350 gross tons of fish or arms. Their speed ranges up to 30 knots.

In the past six weeks, U. S. patrol vessels and aircraft have regularly sighted these Soviet trawlers making high-speed runs from Cuba to Mexico, concentrating on areas close to Guatemala and Venezuela.

Several of these powerful Russian "fishing boats" were spotted early this month unloading arms and men in an isolated cove of Margarita Island off the coast of Venezuela. The weapons and Communist-trained guerrillas were enroute to camps near Caracas, only an hour-and-a-half by air from Margarita.

Significantly, it was on Margarita Island that Simon Bolivar, famed South American patriot, proclaimed himself leader of the rebel army that ultimately overthrew Spanish rule.

The U. S. Consul in Veracruz, Mexico, has informed the State Department that 30 Russian fishing vessels are operating in the Gulf of Mexico, making regular trips to Cuba and using Veracruz as a base for supplies.

Many of these "fishing boats" have the latest electronic gear — far in excess of that normally deemed necessary for fishing operations. The ships are manned by Soviet crews, but usually carry Cuban and other Spanish-speaking passengers.

The New Threat — The Joint Chiefs of Staff, led by outgoing Chief of Naval Operations George Anderson, are so disturbed by this growing new Russian threat that they have quietly launched a drive inside the administration and Congress to indu e President Kennedy and his policy-makers to take prompt and forceful counter measures.

The military commanders stress that despite the President's public pledge to Caribbean leaders at the recent Costa Rica conference to formulate plans to build a "wall of men" around Cuba, nothing has yet been done to make this a firm policy.

It is pointed out that the U. S. Navy, the only force powerful enough to halt this expanding arms and guerrilla traffic, has not been committed to do that. The Navy has neither directives nor orders to take such urgently needed action.

Navy operations in Cuban waters are now strictly limited to the surveillance of Russian shipping. Even that is far from effective because of the immense area to be covered and the small number of ships assigned to the job.

In a private meeting with members of the House Military Appropriations Subcommittee, Admiral Anderson declared frankly it would take a large-scale naval blockade to halt the Communist traffic of guerrillas and arms from Cuba to other Latin American countries. He emphasized this was his own opinion and not the administration's.

President Kennedy and his policy-makers have ruled out a blockade as the solution. Instead, they have embarked on a series of conferences with the threatened nations to determine what they can do to combat this intensifying menace to them.

The Moscow Trip — Fidel Castro's trip to Russia is directly linked to the build-up of Soviet "fishing boats" in Cuban waters.

Intelligence authorities note that a majority of advisers accompanying the Cuban dictator are connected either with naval operations or guerrilla training. Also, instead of touring Russia with Castro, these officials have remained in Moscow for conferences with Soviet experts in these fields.

Further, Castro's group includes Russian technicians directing the construction of a so-called "fishing port" in Atares Cove in the port of Havana. When completed next year, this port will be able to handle 300 ocean-going trawlers at one time. It is one of four "fishing ports" the Soviet is building in Cuba.

It is also known that the Russians are planning to turn over part of this "fishing" fleet to the Cubans. Some 3,000 Cubans are being trained at Kaliningrad as crews for these boats.

In April, 70 Cubans were graduated from a "fishing and naval school" in the province of Las Villas. Another 2,000 are studying there.

Red Trawler Flashes — Intelligence estimates that at least 15,000 Soviet trawlers are now sailing the seven seas. These ships usually work in groups of 50 to 90 in specific areas. Almost inevitably, these regions coincide with important Western defense installations, rockets testing centers, or naval maneuvers. While individual ships return to Russia every six months, the size of these fleets remains about the same . . . The trawlers have been sighted regularly by U. S. vessels and aircraft off the Cape Canaveral missile launching center and along the coast from Virginia to Newfoundland, with special concentrations near Cape Cod. Also Alaska . . . In the Cape Canaveral area, the Soviet ships have boldly attempted to recover rocket capsules and Polaris "dummies" under the very nose of U. S. ships and planes on similar missions.

The Train Stops Here

The recommendations submitted by a Presidential emergency board offer a sound basis for strike-free resolution of the long dispute over excess manpower on the nation's railroads. They go even further in protecting locomotive firemen against the impact of rapid technological change than the report Mr. Kennedy received fourteen months ago from a special White House commission set up by President Eisenhower.

Since the initial proposals carefully balanced the railroad's need for greater efficiency against the workers' right to economic safeguards, the more generous treatment now available should halt union foot-dragging and clear the way for a prompt agreement. The freezing into train crews of unneeded men imposes on the roads a financial burden they cannot carry without continued loss of traffic to competing forms of transportation. The end result is job insecurity for all classes of rail employes.

President Kennedy, who helped make the earlier recommendations meaningless by refusing to put the prestige of his office behind them, now has urged both sides to accept the present proposals as the bedrock for a contract. Any disagreement over whether specific classes of jobs ought to be retained can be disposed of through binding arbitration, under the procedures outlined by the emergency board. No such dispute can be considered serious enough to justify a national tie-up. As Mr. Kennedy said, in appealing for a harmonious settlement, the survival of free collective bargaining may be determined by the success of the railroads and the unions in keeping the trains running.—N. Beware Blurred Edge

Now that Nelson Rockefeller has weakened himself as a Presidential possibility, there is a frantic scramble in Republican politics. And the scramble reveals an old pattern: the so-called liberal Republicans are looking for an imprecise candidate in order to beat a precise candidate in the national convention.

To head off a precise Goldwater, they are talking about a Romney or a Scranton, whose opinions on a great many subjects have not yet been nailed down. The fuzzy man is supposed to be better than the man of hard outlines.

However, in looking for imprecision to beat precision, the Republicans are pursuing a mirage. For the history of American politics since the Nineteen Thirties proves that the man of definition always wins over the man of fuzzy edges on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The victories of Ike Eisenhower do not disprove the point, for Ike's opponent, Adlai Stevenson, was always more imprecise than the General.

Franklin Roosevelt, who gave the Democrats their great Twentieth Century winning streak, was not by nature a precise man, but he had sufficient political instinct to know that when you go after a person it is good politics to be on the level with him. The Democratic strategy under Roosevelt and Jim Farley and Louis Howe was to make specific appeals to specific groups, and then trust that the sum total would add up to victory.

You promised something definite to labor, something definite to farmers, something definite to intellectuals — and when the voting machines turned in a result that was as precise as anything that comes out of an I.B.M. computer you smiled the satisfied smile of the Cheshire cat.

Confused by the Democratic successes of the Roosevelt era, the Republicans have sought to imitate them without understanding the art of putting together a victorious coalition. This art does not consist of being all things to all men.

To create a winning coalition, you have to be as definite as a punch press about a lot of separate and distinct things. You promise the farmer a guaranteed minimum price.

You promise the mothers that their sons will not be drafted to fight in foreign wars. You promise labor the right to bargain collectively.

You are something to somebody, or to a collection of somebodies, which is entirely different from trying to be everything to everybody.

Politics is, in short, the art of addition, not the art of obfuscation or concealment. This is something that the modern Republican Party does not seem to understand.

The modern Republicans have sought to wean certain groups away from the old Rooseveltian coalition. But they haven't been able to put their hearts into the job for fear that they might offend the groups that have been traditionally Republican by nature of inherited loyalties.

To bridge a psychological impasse they have followed the strategy of choosing a candidate whose political character is, so to speak, still unformed, still plastic, in hopes that the mild deception that is involved in such behavior will somehow fool fifty-one per cent of the voters.

The exaltation of imprecision over cold addition recently encouraged Amintore Fanfani in Italy to blur the edges of the Christian Democratic Party in hopes of picking up support on the Left. But the "opening to the Left" backfired: the Fanfani party lost ground to two parties of precision, the Communists and the free trade Liberals.

If the Republicans in America want to win in 1964, they had better ponder the fate of imprecise candidates not only here but elsewhere in the world.

If this column sounds like a pitch for Goldwater, who has clear opinions on everything from States' Rights to Cuba, let me hasten to say that it is not. The Republicans have other precise men whom they might tap in hopes of putting together a coalition whose members would know how they stood with the party candidate for President.

Governor George Romney may have possibilities of clear definition once he gets around to explaining himself. And there is Governor Jim Rhodes of Ohio, who is giving his State a heartening example of fiscal integrity. All the Republicans need is someone who will be something in separate detail to various somebodies, in hopes that the addition of definite "somethings" will create a winning coalition.

The Pennsylvania Story

Two-Fisted Control Gone

Harrisburg — With Pennsylvania's lawmakers in recess this week for Tuesday's primary election — and a breather — one point stands out rather glaringly: legislative leaders today do not have the iron-fisted control over rank and file they enjoyed yesteryear.

In actuality and depending on how you look at it, this is a plus — or minus — factor.

The legislative hassles of the current 1963 session illustrate the point — particularly in the 210-member House of Representatives where for example GOP administration lawmakers hold 109 seats, three more than necessary to pass legislation in the lower chamber.

Yet not withstanding this "edge," which among other things assures them full-blooded control of the House, on critical issues — Republican administration issues — it has been a nip and tuck deal many times to get enough lined up within GOP ranks to carry through legislation in question.

The sales tax hassle with its vim and fuss provides of course a perfect illustration.

When the Republican Scranton Administration proposed increasing the sales tax from the present 4 per cent to 4½ per cent for example (including clothing), the opposition from within the administration's own GOP ranks in the House was formidable; so formidable in fact that the 4½ per cent plan had to be junked!

Look what happened during the past week when the tussle over upping the sales tax rate to 5 per cent — but this time excluding clothing — came before the GOP bloc in the House! The opposition within the majority bloc played hob with the best laid plans of strategists! In the showdown the GOP vote was not solid — and even two opposition Democrats bolted political pleas and joined in finally passing the measure!

In any event, the point to be made by these illustrations is that the iron-fisted control over party ranks does not exist today — in the form it did yesterday.

Today there is more a trend toward the protruding chin, independent course on the part of party rank and filers in the legislative blocs.

The time used to be when it merely required one word from the legislative leader — and the blocks all lined up like tuning forks on parade.

The political hangovers and holdovers from yesteryear still automatically line up when the whip is cracked — but the significant and interesting point is that each year the snap-to line seemingly becomes smaller and smaller.

Today there are those who do have the fortitude to tell some of the ranking heirarchy to go peddle their indian pelts when it comes down to a showdown.

There are those — in growing number — who somehow manage to think for themselves, rather than countenance being thought-for.

For the most part those falling within these two categories are the ones of what might be termed a new generation; they've been bred out of — rather than in — the political hackpot; they trod a path independent of their private destinies — a path heretofore tied in almost inextricably with any such destiny.

The old order changeth indeed. For the political hacksters of yesteryear who knows only follow-the-leader, the trend is a frightening "minus" factor; a thing to be abhored.

For the upcoming breed of political hotbloods, coolbloods and purebloods, the challenging course of independence and the privilege of acting, speaking and doing as they think is a "plus" factor that is rare as yet but becoming more prolific.

The old political iron fist of yesterday has mellowed somewhat — not by choice but by force of circumstance more than anything else thanks to many a younger legislative brave in the first or second term category.

The transition has been gradual but you don't just press a botton anymore — in either Democratic or Republican ranks; today it takes quite a bit of squeezing!

GOD IN THE MIDST OF HER

The month of May's the time to pose
In Nature's looking glass;
And jeweled crown to ragged toes
Should blend with sprouting grass.
Oh not that every gem should be
That self-same shade of green,
For here and there anemone,
Or violet is seen;

And robin red-breast sits beside
The pathway, in the sun,
A-waiting for his bashful bride,
Where tulips have begun
To show their pink and yellow slips,
While marching down the aisle,
And cherry-painted finger tips
In maid-of-honor style.

A world of color just to match
The rainbows promise true;
And trees hold out their arms to catch
The tears from heaven's blue.
Her weeping's not for sorrow, tho',
But joy that Spring is here;
And God the Father tends to show

The fountain-head most clear;
And no locked doors can shut it out —
This newness from above,
All knit together 'round about
One hearth, encircling love.
And each bud proves its deepest need,
Thru mystery of birth —
The value of one atom-SEED
To burst o'er all the earth!

Try and Stop Me

Happy Memories: When Ed Wynn played a waiter in "Manhattan Mary" and a customer demanded lamb chops au gratin, Wynn shouted to the kitchen, "Cheese it, the chops" . . . When Eddie Cantor told a pair of worn-out acrobats, who invariably closed the show in the old vaudeville houses, "Boys, if you ever expect to get anywhere in this profession, you'll have to dream up a new finish for your act." "New finish!" echoed one of the acrobats indignantly. "Nobody's ever waited to see the old one yet." . . . And when a druggist stopped Bobby Clark to ask, "Did that mudpack I suggested improve your wife's appearance?" Bobby's answer was, "It did for a couple of days, but then it wore off."

George Burns recalled the story of the man who swallowed his glass eye and rushed to a stomach specialist. The latter peered down the fellow's throat and exclaimed, "I've looked into a lot of stomachs in my day, but I must say this is the first one that ever looked back at me!"

The bride kissed her husband warmly upon his return from the office and sympathized, "I can tell by your face that you've had one of those frustrating days where everything possible went wrong. What would you say to a round of vodka martinis, followed by a fine thick steak, French fries, a tossed salad, and some fresh peach cake?"

"Not tonight, darling," begged the bridegroom. "Let's just have dinner at home."

Speaking Of Your Health:

Foreign Objects In The Nose

If your child has stuffed a small object in his nose, such as a bean or a piece of paper, don't poke around too much. You may push it farther back.

Try to handle the situation as calmly as possible. If you are relaxed, the child will be relaxed, too.

If he is old enough to follow your instructions, show him how to breathe in through his mouth and out through his nose.

Call Doctor

If this does not force out the object, ask your doctor to remove it. He has the special equipment for the gentle and safe removal of these objects.

It goes without saying that children should be taught never to put anything in their noses.

But remember—if you can't remove it easily, don't keep trying. And if you can't see it, don't probe for it. You may only complicate the problem.

HIP FRACTURES

Orthopedic surgery is devoted to the problems, diseases and fractures of the bones and the joints. Few fields of medicine have made more spectacular advances in recent years than has the science of Orthopedics.

Wires and pins made of tantalum and stainless steel have made fractures of the bones knit faster and with greater strength. External splints and months of healing are now considerably reduced by these remarkable appliances. Actual bone grafts have been tremendously successful, too.

More and more, the difficult problems in orthopedic surgery are revealing their secrets to the relentless pressure of scientific advancement.

FEVER FURY

What does a fever thermometer mean to you?

Do you rush for the family thermometer at the slightest change of expression on your child's face? Do you take the temperature even before you've uttered a comfortable word and if it's a few tenths of a degree above normal do you go into a tailspin?

Do It Too Often

Many parents take temperatures far more often than is necessary and usually are frightened beyond realistic proportions. When the little patient sees this anxiety, he becomes anxious, too.

What he really needs at a time of illness is your calm, comforting reassurance that he will feel better soon.

Remember that fever itself is not an ailment. It is a helpful signal that the body is fighting an infection. Even when fever is very high, the infection causing it can readily be controlled by your doctor with whatever one of the many modern drugs he feels is best for your child's particular illness.

Dear Abby

Turning In Her Pup Tent!

DEAR ABBY:: We've been married 16 years. For the past 15 years we have had a camping vacation every summer. I've camped while pregnant, and with children of all ages. We have four children now. The youngest is 2 and the oldest is 15. Our children would like to go to Disneyland. I don't care where we go as long as I don't have to sleep in a tent and go without a real bath for two weeks. What can I do? My husband claims this is the only way we can afford to go. He's now planning to buy another tent, which will cost $110, plus other camping equipment. We already have enough to outfit the Boy Scouts of America. He earns over $12,000 a year.

SERVED MY CAMPING TIME

DEAR SERVED: Compromise. Camp near a nice, modern motel and YOU check in while your husband enjoys the wide open spaces. (Are you sure that before you married him, you never told him you'd "live in a tent"?)

DEAR ABBY: I had the girls over for bridge last evening. Two of them left together and the third one stayed a little longer. My husband was sitting in the den reading the newspaper. When it came time for her to go, she said she wanted to call a taxi. My husband said HE would drive her home. She said absolutely not, she wanted to take a taxi. I got to thinking, WHY wouldn't she let my husband drive her home? Should I worry?

SUSPICIOUS

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Yes — but not about your husband. What's bugging YOU?

DEAR ABBY: The proper clothing for 100 head of cattle is NOT Bermuda shorts, but moo moos.

For District Attorney, James R. Marsh is completing his first term at the office. He is a Democrat and is unopposed.

Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory of Hamilton Township, incumbent register of wills and recorder of deeds, is the only Republican candidate for re-election.

Democratic candidates for the post are Floyd Butz of East Stroudsburg, who lost to Mrs. Batory four years ago, and J. Nelson Westbrook, Stroudsburg, who served as county treasurer from 1958 to 1961.

Two county commissioners will be elected in November.

Four Republican candidates seek the nomination. They are Stanley Rader of Effort, currently minority member of the three man board; John M. Price, Stroudsburg businessman; W. Adolph Rake, East Stroudsburg RD 1, a general contractor, and J. Russell Custard, East Stroudsburg RD 1, in promotional advertising.

There are five Democratic candidates for the offices. They are Willard L. Quick, Stroudsburg, currently in that office; John R. Lesoine, Tannersville, chairman of the board of county commissioners; Stuart F. Pipher, Tannersville, manager of a Stroudsburg electrical firm.

Democratic candidates also include Donald A. Hunsicker, Brodheadsville funeral director, and Clinton Custard, East Stroudsburg RD 2, a stockman in an area printing house.

County Auditor

Republican and Democratic candidates for county auditor are unopposed.

The Republicans are Mrs. Mary Emma Teeter Garcia of Stroudsburg, currently a member of the board of auditors, and V. R. Fitzgerald, also a member of the board, of Stroudsburg.

The Democrats are Joseph J. Vogt of Cresco, currently serving as an auditor on appointment to succeed Mahlon Beseecker, and Thomas K. Joyce of Stroud Township, a partner in the firm of H. and J. Masonry.

Three school directors at-large will be chosen for the November election voting by residents of the Stroud Union School District. This is the first time school directors at-large have been voted upon in the district.

In other battles, individual wards and townships will vote for justices of the peace, town supervisors, councilmen, township auditors, and school directors.

Voting Machines Bugaboo To New, Unfamiliar Users

STROUDSBURG — Voting machines will be used in Tuesday's primary election in Monroe County — and some people unfamiliar with them become confused by the rows of levers.

The machines are actually simple to operate, and are more accurate than paper ballot counting methods.

The vote is recorded automatically, and totaled up at the end of the voting day.

In a primary, the machines are set so the voter can only cast his ballot for candidates in his party.

Upon entering the machine, the large handle in the center of the machine is pulled to the right. This closes the curtain to keep secrecy and sets the machine to record the vote.

In a primary, the voter then chooses his nominations for office from the applicants listed in his row. For instance if the office is sheriff, and there are five candidates from your party, you flip down the lever under your choice so that a little red X appears.

If there is one candidate, and you want him for office, the procedure is the same. If there are no candidates, and you do not want to write in a name, the lever is left up.

In a November election, if the voter wants to vote the straight ticket, the lever at the left of his row is pulled; or he may split his ticket and vote for members of both parties.

After the selections are made, the lever is pulled back to the left, recording the vote, releasing the levers, and opening the curtains.

Two Arrested

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct at Eagle Valley Corners over the weekend.

They are Edward Uravage, 21, of 73 N. Logan St., Wilkes-Barre, and Frank Diehl, Jr., 18, of 128 East Green St., West Hazleton.

Fred Weber, 79, Of Stroudsburg

CLARKS GREEN — Fred J. Weber, 79, of Stroudsburg RD 2, was found hanging by his neck Saturday in the cellar of his brother's home at 505 S. Abington Rd.

Dr. Paul E. Kubasko, Lackawanna County Coroner, said last night it was suicide.

Dr. Kubasko continued, "The man took an old electric wire, fastened it to a hook in one of the beams of the cellar, and then stepped off a small stepladder. He was found by his brother Benjamin early Saturday morning. I have issued a death certificate with the cause of death as suicide."

Born in Scranton, he was a son of the late William and Elizabeth Knapp Weber.

Mr. Weber had been an employe of the Colonial Dinner in Stroudsburg for many years. When it was sold by Karl Kohl, Weber was employed by Kohl at Colonial Lanes Bowling Alleys in Stroud Township.

He had resided in Scranton many years before moving into Monroe County. In Scranton he was employed as a plumber by the Joseph O'Hora Plumbing and Heating Co.

In addition to his brother, Benjamin, he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Caroline Hazen, of Scranton, and one other brother, A. W. Russel Weber, also of Scranton.

Services will be held today at 2 p.m. in the Snowdon Funeral Home with the Rev. James Wert officiating. Burial will be in the Dunmore Cemetery, Dunmore.

Man Tossed From Car In Accident

ANALOMINK — The driver of a car who lost control on a sharp curve here at 12:45 a.m. Saturday received abrasions and slight lacerations of both arms when thrown from the skidding vehicle.

The driver was Fred H. Storm, 25, of Stroudsburg RD 1; no one else was involved. The car was demolished.

According to Stroudsburg State Police, Storm was heading south on Rt. 196 when he came to the intersection of legislative route 1005.

He failed to negotiate the curve and the car turned over. It slid on its roof and hit a telephone pole.

Storm was hurled from the car as it hit the pole.

Need Aluminum? See J. G. DeRenzis

JOSEPH G. DeRenzis and Son are proud to be distributors for Alside Aluminum Siding. Alside, Inc., is one of the oldest manufacturers of aluminum siding in the country. Not only the oldest, but by far the largest. Large enough to have a position on the New York Stock Exchange "big board."

DeRenzis and Son would like to point out that this is a "made-to-order" business for "fly-by-night operators, who sell inferior siding at exorbitant prices.

It is important if you are interested in aluminum siding for your home, you consider the following points: 1. Don't sign anything for a salesman you know nothing about. Your signature more than likely will be a "completion certificate", saying that the work has been completed, when in reality it hasn't even been started.

2. Make sure you know something of the concern the salesman represents.

3. Make sure you know something about the product he sells. Just because his siding is made with aluminum from one of the four leading aluminum companies, does not mean it's the best.

4. Ask how the siding will be installed. Ask if their workmen are covered with insurance. Most generally, these fellows travel in pairs. To have two sharpies brainwashing a prospect is a lot easier for them than just one.

While you're signing your life away for one, the other can keep talking so you don't realize just what you've signed. Victims have nothing, but papers with their signatures were produced, leaving Mr. and Mrs. Victim with nothing left but to pay.

5. Don't fall for wild, ridiculous, "lifetime" guarantees. Aluminum siding has not been on the market long enough for such nonsensical statements. And watch out for these salesmen who will do your house "free" if you let him take a picture of your house "before" and "after". Some offer fantastic bonuses for anyone who just looks at your job.

In short, these "fly-by-nighters" are quick, smooth, ruthless salesmen, who have one thing in mind . . . get in , and get out, with as much of your money as you'll part with. Don't let them. Ask them to come back in a day or two (they won't). Because this gives you time to check up on him.

Deftenzis and Son will be happy to discuss your siding problems with you at any time. They are a local concern, members of the Monroe County Master Builders Association, and Chamber of Commerce.

They feel Alside Aluminum Siding is one of the best made today. Their installations are done with pride of workmanship, and most important, you'll pay a fair price, with financing through any local bank, to improve and beautify your home with the best you can buy, Alside.

Work Desk Improves Kitchen

A WOMAN'S kitchen in many ways is her "office." Here she is likely to plan meals, pay bills, do some business by phone, and call friends and neighbors regarding community or social affairs.

She's likely to do this in the kitchen, that is, if she has a place to keep her records, marshal her thoughts and, perhaps most important, sit down to do this in an organized way.

The upshot of this is a desk unit. It is something almost every housewife can use and, when such a unit is made of lumber, it can add to a kitchen's attractiveness and usefulness. This is particularly true when it is co-ordinated with other built-ins and paneling of matching lumber.

Such lumber need not be expensive to look handsome. Good economical softwoods, such as the 11 kinds that grow in the western pine region, are excellent. They respond beautifully to careful sanding, good carpentry, and proper finishing. Furthermore, the western pine region woods are readily available and easy to work with.

Check with R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., East Stroudsburg for different types of lumber and plans today.

ZONING HEATING SYSTEM GIVES COMFORT, ECONOMY

ZONING a hot water heating system provides the last word in temperature control, comfort and fuel economy.

Separate zones, or 'circuits,' permit different temperatures in different parts of the home, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Thus, the living room and dining room can be kept warmer than the bedrooms, which are used principally for sleeping and do not require as much heat.

VANITY LAVATORY A CONVENIENCE

VANITY lavatories have given impetus to bathroom modernization, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Also known as counter-top lavatories, these fixtures combine the advantages of a wash basin with those of a dressing table. Drawers and shelves under the fixtures provide plenty of storage space.

HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

REMOTE control lighting systems for the home have been available since 1945, but did not become popular then because few homes had enough installed lighting fixtures to make such a system worthwhile.

With the recent comeback of the lighting fixture, a definite trend toward the use of remote control lighting seems to have developed. A manufacturer survey shows that installations of remote control systems doubled within the past two years and are expected to double again by the end of 1963.

Remote control lighting permits switching of lights from remote points. Like the ordinary home thermostat or the doorbell, the system operates on low voltages. Conduit or heavy metallic cable is not needed in most cases. Thus, the costs of installation and operation are well within the range of the average home buyer.

At the present time installations are being made mostly in homes costing $15,000 or more.

Lighting experts split the advantages of the low voltage remote control systems between safety and convenience. Studies and common sense spell out the dangers of moving from lighted areas to dark ones. With remote control, you may turn on all the lights along your intended path at the starting point and turn them off during your passage or at your destination. This can entirely eliminate the danger and hazard of being in darkness and the inconvenience of having to backtrack to turn lights off.

The variations of remote control systems are almost limitless. But the key in every instance is the master control panel. Normally located at the main entrance and in the master bedroom (two master controls are recommended), these master selector switches control up to a dozen circuits each — individually or all together. This means that should the housewife hear a disturbing noise atnight, a twist of the dial or touch of a switch on the master control at her bedside can flood her home and grounds in light.

It also means that the man of the house can turn off the alarm with one hand in the morning and turn on the light in the bathroom and the automatic coffeemaker in the kitchen with the other.

Light fixtures in the living room may be turned on by a master panel in the bedroom and turned off by a switch in the living room and vice versa. The same living room may also have switches at each entrance, so that on another occasion lights may be turned on as you enter, and turned off as you pass through and leave.

Many switches are equipped with soft lights so they can be located in the dark. Some even have pilot lights to remind you that a light is on, perhaps in the basement or yard.

Low voltage switching systems are simply a departure from industrial control systems that use low voltage switches and relays to switch on high voltage motors and equipment.

Free Booklet On Shelters Available

FALL-OUT shelters are needed everywhere, says the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, even though an attack by nuclear weapons would be directed chiefly against the nation's air and missile bases.

An OCDM booklet says:

"The enemy would try to knock out our retaliatory power. He might also try to destroy our cities. No one can be sure now how far the enemy will go.

For a free copy of "The Family Fall-Out Shelter," see your local or county OCDM office or write the Masonite Home Service Bureau, Suite 2037, 11 W. Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

WICHITA, Kans. — Joseph Villiano, Wilson Borough High School, Easton, is one of 32 Spanish teachers chosen from nearly 200 applicants throughout the United States who will participate in the National Defense Education Act Institute for Secondary School Teachers of Spanish to be held for two weeks on the campus of the University of Wichita, Wichita, Kansas.

While at the University of Wichita, Villiano will take part in an orientation program which will prepare the group for the seven weeks of residence in Mexico. During their stay in Mexico, Institute participants will live part time in a private home and part time in the Hotel Colonial in Puebla, since one of the main objectives of the summer program is to give the participants first-hand knowledge of the Mexicon people and their way of life.

New Enlistment Program Announced By Guardsmen

SCRANTON—The 1st Battalion, 109th Infantry, 28th Infantry Division, Pennsylvania Army National Guard, this week inaugurated a new enlistment program under which men with prior military service are offered a unique opportunity to enlist in units of this battalion for a one-year "trial" period, instead of the customary two or three-year enlistment.

The announcing the program, to be called the "Try One" Program, Lt. Colonel John Chinchilla, Battalion Commander, said that the program is open to men up to 60 years of age who have prior service either on active duty or in the reserve components. Enlistment will be at the last military rank held, so long as unit vacancies permit.

NEARLY 98 per cent of World War II veterans able to work are employed, Veterans Administration figures show.

Substitute Wheat Plan Clarified

THE WHEAT program provision which — if the May 21 referendum vote is favorable and if there is a feed grain diversion program in effect for 1964 — would permit the growing of wheat in place of feed grains on the "permitted" acreage of farms participating in both programs was explained today by Donald Reish, Chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Monroe County Committee.

In an attempt to correct a misunderstanding of the provision, which has resulted in some cases from incomplete information, the chairman said that the provision would be a part of both the wheat and feed grain programs, provided, of course, that growers approve wheat quotas in the May 21 referendum and that new legislation provides a feed grain program for 1964 crops. (Authorizing feed grain legislation now is being considered by Congress and has passed the House of Representatives.)

Peace Returns To UK Palace

LONDON (AP) — Labor peace apparently has returned to Buckingham Palace with the announcement Sunday that 180 of Queen Elizabeth's servants — palace grooms, footmen and similar staff workers—will get a three per cent pay hike.

Rumblings of discontent seeped out of the palace last fall when a number of royal servants complained to the Civil Servants Union of bad working hours, excessive regimentation and low pay.

Some were getting $22 to $30 a week plus lodgings. Many said they had to augment their pay by working part-time as bartenders and waiters.

PM Pageant Not Off; Set For Fall

STROUDSBURG—Mrs. Robert A. Miller, founder and director of the annual Miss Pocono Mountains pageant, last night denied rumors she said are circulating through the area that the competition will not be held this year.

"The pageant will be one of the highlights of the Flaming Foliage Festival," Mrs. Miller said. She said the rumors apparently started because the pageant was held in the spring in previous years.

The pageant is sponsored by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau with the Barrett Junior Women's Club as coordinating organization.

Persons desiring entry blanks may secure them from Mrs. Miller, by writing to her at 906 Main St., Stroudsburg, from the Vacation Bureau or from any member of the Barrett Junior Women's Club.

Government Race Action Too Slow

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An Episcopalian bishop criticized the federal government Friday for not moving into racially-troubled Birmingham, Ala., sooner.

"It would seem that the federal government should have taken steps toward prevention," Bishop Austin Pardue of the Pittsburgh Diocese said.

He made the statements in an address at the annual diocesan convention.

"Obviously, in the future when a local situation cannot be handled by local people, the federal government should move in to see that peace reigns and justice is administered," Bishop Pardue said.

Local Police Keep Eye On Transients

By JIM SHAFER
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Policemen are everybody's friend, or at least they try to be and the police in the Stroudsburgs are no different. No matter how you look at it their main job is to keep people out of trouble with the law.

Chief of Police John Tretheway, Stroudsburg, said, "I have told all the men on the force that when they make their patrols, both day and night, they should look for the men who are traveling through the area and do not have sufficient funds to pay for a night's lodging and direct them to the Control Center in the municipal building. We will provide them with a place to stay for the night and then they can go on their way the following morning."

Travis Seese, chief of police East Stroudsburg, said, "All my men are instructed to aid persons and in particular those passing through and do not or can not afford a place to sleep for the night. When the men find such an individual they instruct him to go to the Stroudsburg Municipal Building where lodging will be provided."

Spring Traffic Heavy

Chief Tretheway said that during the winter months "traffic" is not too heavy but as spring comes more men pass through the area. Most of them are looking for a job or are going from one area to another where they will seek employment.

"In January of this year," Tretheway said, "We provided lodging for 13 men in the borough lockup. In February the number was 11, in March there were 25, in April 38, and so far this month we have had four men, but that will increase towards the end of the month."

He continued, "We allow the men to spend one night in the lockup. Before they are shown where to sleep they must give us their name, home address and their social security number.

"Then they are searched for weapons, such as knives or razors. If we find any of these they are kept in safe-keeping until the next morning and then returned to the individual," Tretheway concluded.

A look at the monthly report shows that men come from all points of the United States. Most of them come from an area in a 10-mile radius of Stroudsburg.

Some of the cities on the report are, Dallas, Texas; San Francisco, Calif.; Miami, Fla., and New York City. Towns more familiar are Hazleton, Reading, Muncy, Easton, Bethlehem, Allentown, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh.

Mostly Just Transients

Tretheway and Seese agreed that only a very low percentage of the men given sleeping quarters here are bad men. Only on one occasion could they recall one of the men getting into trouble.

This man was granted a night's lodging, searched and shown where to sleep. "This was early in the afternoon," Tretheway said, "and later the man said he was going out for supper. During the night a local business was broken into and robbed of some change from one of the vending machines. The next day the man was seen spending a great deal of change on one of the local bars. A check by the department soon proved that he was the man who had broken into the business place and its vending machines."

This is the only bad report the police chiefs could recall.

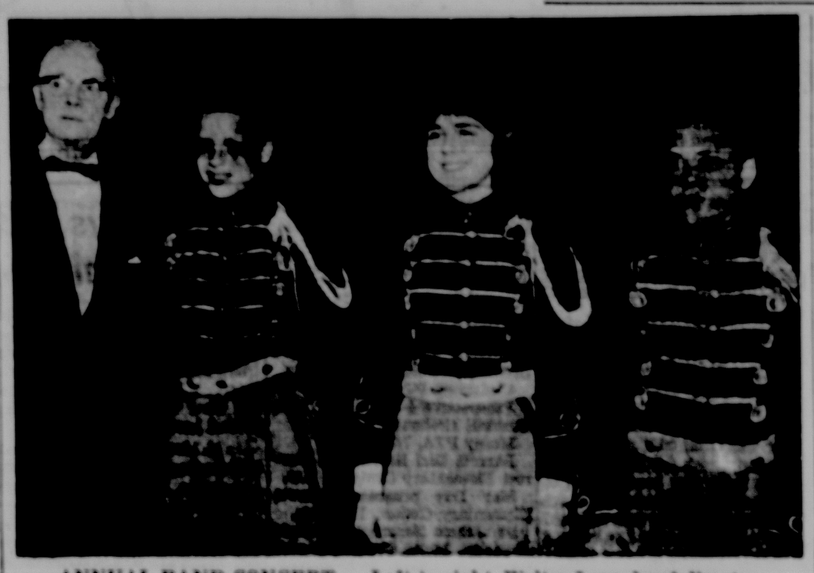

Unusual Business

Karl Dickl, an employee at the Control Center, said, "There is one fellow who has been here several times who has a very unusual business. He just goes from one area of the United States to another, works long enough to get a few dollars in his pocket and then you don't see him for another year."

He continued, "Around this area he collects a specimen of grass that is used in aquariums. I'm not sure but I think he told me he mails them into the New York City area to customers there."

"In the winter this man goes out west and does a little prospecting. He has looked for gold, silver and uranium and tells me that sometimes he has found some, but when he comes east he doesn't have much money to show for it," he concluded.

"THE JOB of the newspaper is to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. — F. P. Dunne (Mr. Dooley)

Contractor On Probation

SCRANTON — A Lehighton electrical contractor, charged with taking money in the form of kickbacks from an employe while building the Normal St. housing development in East Stroudsburg, pleaded guilty to the charge Friday in U. S. District Court here.

Judge William J. Nealon placed Larry S. Stout on probation for one year and ordered him to repay the federal funds he was accused of taking.

No amount was mentioned in the information, but reports said it was about $1,000. Stout was represented by Atty. John Deutsch of Lehighton.

Kenneth Ritter of Lehighton pleaded guilty to failure to file income tax returns over a five-year period.

Tree-Planting Program In County

STROUDSBURG Ten members of the Pocono Forestry Association met at the Soil Conservation Service office here Friday night to discuss the tree-planting program in Monroe County.

Dale Learn, past president, said that he would contribute $25 to the person planting the most trees over 5,000 in the spring of 1964.

The group also discussed government spraying for the control of the gypsy moth in Monroe and Pike Counties. No conclusions were reached. It was decided that each member would investigate the spraying technique and report at the June meeting.

The annual banquet will tentatively be held at the Horn of Plenty at Greentown on Saturday, Oct. 5.

Seek End Of Discrimination

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) —African foreign ministers meeting Addis Ababa on Sunday adopted a series of relatively moderate proposals to press their nations' demands for an end to colonialism and racial discrimination on the continent.

The proposals, to be submitted to the African chiefs of state who will meet in the Ethiopian capital next week, were worked out by a committee headed by Diallo Telly, Guinea's ambassador to the United Nations.

"We prefer to recommend a little and obtain approval rather than aim too high and risk rejection by the chiefs of state," Telly told newsmen.

Miss Constance Marie Sandt was married on Saturday morning at 11 a.m. in St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church, East Stroudsburg to David Thomas O'Connor of 404 Clermont Ave., Stroudsburg.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Kruse, 115 Berwick Heights Road, East Stroudsburg and Harold A. Sandt of 46 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg. Her husband is the son of Thomas and Helen O'Connor of 821 Susquehanna St., Forest City.

Mrs. David T. O'Conner

Rev. Francis Barrett performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with bouquets of white gladiolae and greens, a nosegay arrangement was placed at the feet of the Virgin Mary. George Sebring Jr. was soloist, singing "On This Day", "Communion" and "Bouquet Placed".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie with a modified scoop neckline embroidered with tiny seed pearls in a motif repeated in the cummerbund. The sheath skirt was worn with a bouffant overskirt which fell into a chapel length train. Her bouffant veil of imported French illusion fell from a pillbox of peau de soie trimmed with tiny seedpearls. She carried a white orchid on a white ribbon, with a cascade of ribbons caught with stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Harold S. Sandt of 46 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg, was matron of honor. She wore a hesitation-length gown of nile silk organza over taffeta with a scoop neckline and brief sleeves, and a detachable overskirt of chiffon over the sheath skirt with a soft bow at the waist. She wore a small pillbox of silk organza with a sheer nose veil and carried a cascade of yellow glamelias and salal.

The bridesmaids, Miss Diana O'Connor of Tanite Road; Mrs. Harry Whittley Jr., of Stroudsburg RD 1; and Mrs. John Graver of 1020 Fairview Ave., Stroudsburg, wore similar gowns and headdresses in nile green and carried crescent bouquets of yellow glamelias and salal.

Steve Warhola of Keystone Ave., Peckville, was best man. Ushers were Robert C. Brands, East Stroudsburg RD 2; William S hoonover, American Hotel, Stroudsburg; Nicholas LaPenna, Main St., Stroudsburg; Alfred Edinger, Delaware Water Gap.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace sheath dress with matching accessories and a beige and tangerine flower hat. Her corsage was of cymbidium orchids. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink chiffon dress with matching accessories and also had a corsage of cymbidium orchids.

A reception for 300 guests was held at the Day Street Memorial Firehall in East Stroudsburg which was decorated with white streamers and wedding bells. The bridal table was garlanded with smilax and a long low bouquet of snapdragons, pompons and babies breath and a five-tiered wedding cake. A buffet dinner featuring ham and turkey was served.

Leaving for a honeymoon to Fort Lauderdale and Miami, Fla., the bride wore a three-piece knit suit of green and white with a white chiffon hat, white kid shoes, gloves and purse and a white orchid corsage.

On their return they will make their home at 404 Clermont Ave., Stroudsburg.

Busy Days In Barrett For Community-wide Activities

Barrett — Spring's arrival in Barrett Township was heralded by bright scented banners in apple trees, lilac bushes and brilliant forsythia blossoms. No question but what things are opening up around here.

As children contemplate the end of the school term, some few with trepidation in relation to their marks, and others with an eager eye trained on possibilities for summer, adults are filling the social calendar with community-wide events.

Another note of interest, which has been running along with the quiet force of an underground stream is the heap of preparations done in behalf of the annual carnival. The date set for the affair is July 29 through Aug. 3.

There are five organizations working on the carnival and numerous new ideas have been suggested with ways of implementation taking up everyone's creativity. This year, the association plans to have a larger selection of things for children to enjoy.

Each participating organization will share in the profits which are all earmarked for specific or general community welfare.

The saying, "Make hay while the sun shines" could have been coined for Barrett since during the Summer months, the community resembles nothing else so much as a bee hive on war work, with triple shifts.

To complete the season's expectations a "re-run" of the "Springtime Galeties" variety show under a new name and with the majority of the acts changed is being planned. The spring effort was considered a major success in both talent and cooperation. The Barrett Friendly Library Association and Barrett Junior Women's Club each realized more than $150 from the event.

And, if it can be considered of any importance, the fumbling of "Witch Hazel" didn't stop her from appearing at the annual Mother-Daughter banquet Saturday night at Pine Knob. With the help of some of the younger guests and a few of the young-in-heart she managed to work out a magic potion.

In ancient history, oracles were consulted on signs which might portend the future. All the signs around here are pointing toward a busy season with everyone involved in one manner or another. By the time October rolls around, residents will be looking forward to a slight respite in pace although it will probably be true again this year . . . Barrett won't hibernate, activity will just be moved back inside meeting rooms.

VOICE OF THE VILLAGE

NORGE VILLAGE

April showers bring May flowers and . . . dirty raincoats, drizzle jackets and rain caps. The Norge Counselor recommends that for best results you spray the especially soiled areas of your rainwear with a fine water mist (available in easy-to-use hoses at the Village)

TIDY BITS:

• A local angler's favorite fishing outfit was drycleaned at the Village after he returned from his mountain retreat. While his wife was loading the fishy, smoky, "beverage"-soaked shirts, sweaters and slacks into the drycleaning machine, she remarked, "If these things come out clean and odorless, I'm sold." They did!

• In the past, it was either a lot of work or quite expensive to keep uniforms and other regulation garb in tip-top shape. But, judging from all the special-type apparel being cleaned at the Village . . . mailmen, policemen, students, delivery men, waitresses, nurses and, even military personnel, are taking advantage of work and money-saving Norge cleaning.

See you at the Village

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

The artificial flowers blooming in our center aisle at Wyckoff's always lift my spirits whenever I pass their way. They are so realistic in appearance, so bright in color, so consistantly fresh looking, it seems to me they should be sent out in regular florists' boxes rather than paper bags. The fact that they will remain perfect through many months of display, and are so very reasonable in price, makes them further attractive, to those who enjoy and love flowers but cannot fit real ones into the budget.

There is tremendous variety in our selection at Wyckoff's. We have anemones, for instance . . . and somehow, I cannot remember ever before seeing artificial announces. We have had real ones in our store from time to time, and I love them, but they are fragile and do not last well in bouquets. THESE will!

Speaking of anemones . . . on a recent visit to Hadassah headquarters in New York, Estelle Koster and I were talking about Israel with Paula Ross, Hadassah's art director. Mrs. Ross said that one of the things that impressed her most about Israel was arriving by air and seeing tremendous seas of flowers . . . tulips, which the Israelis love and are now exporting, and anemones, which are native to the Holy Lands.

* * *

Our artificial white lilacs are delightful too . . . perhaps the most realistic in appearance of all the flowers. I think if I were to be a flower (silly thought!) I should choose to be a white lilac. If this were possible, I'd be in favor of reincarnation.

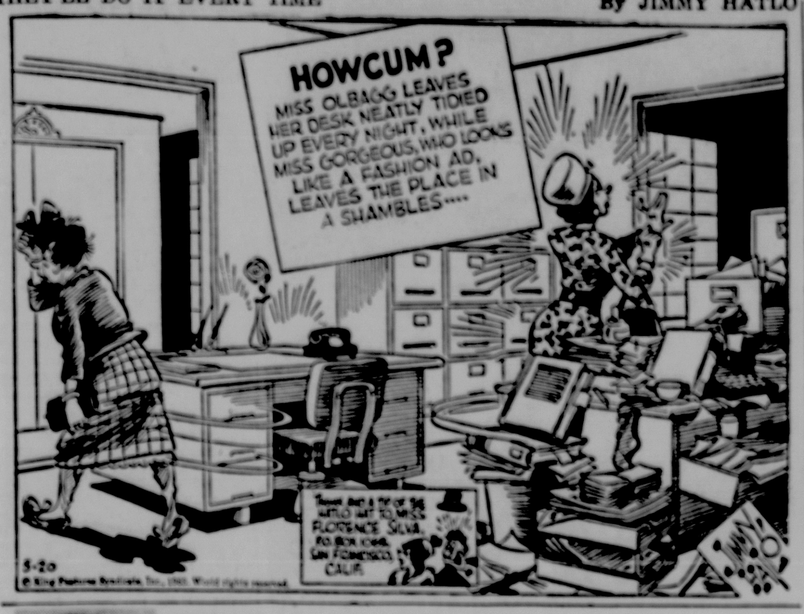

In our yard is a gnarled and sprawling bush that didn't seem very promising this year. Then one morning we discovered it covered solidly with purple lilacs. Their fragrance is even more potent than the lilac fragrances sold in our Cosmetic department, and at night it is heavenly, wafting in the bedroom window.

When my son and I attended Pocono Mountain Art Group meeting last Tuesday evening, Mona and Frank Fitzgerald were there, sketching a very old jug in which Mona had placed both purple and white lilacs. It occurred to me that I might combine the genuine flowers from my bush with the artificial white ones from our store and create much the same effect. Mona, who looks very well after a distressing illness, tells me she has lilacs by the hundreds on her grounds at Kellersville . . . pink, white, lavendar, purple, single and double, and an exotic Persian lilac in an unusual magenta shade.

* * *

The adjective "exotic" also aptly describes the decorator scales with floral arrangements being sold in our gift department, priced from 6.98 to 19.95, depending upon size. These come in various colors: brilliant orchid, bright orange, and so on. The artificial flower arrangements on both sides of the scale are in the same color as the scale. Striking, different, and eye-catching, in the proper setting. Small scales of brass, or larger brass scales with hobnail milk glass decoration, are priced at 2.50 and 5.98, and may be used in many ways. Truth is, they weigh heavily, fashion-wise.

Reporting Of Interest

By William A. Doyle

Q. I have been involved in some heated arguments about the "new" law requiring the reporting of interest (on savings accounts and such) and cash dividends on stock for Federal income tax purposes.

One friend says the law was never passed. Another says it's a new law, effective as of this year. I say that we taxpayers have been required to report these things on our Federal income tax returns for years and years. Who is right?

A. You win the argument. The requirement that you report interest and dividends on your Federal income tax return has been in force for years.

Almost all interest (with the major exception of interest paid on "tax-free public bonds") has been and is reportable and taxable as ordinary income.

Roughly the same thing applies to cash dividends paid on stocks, taking into account the "exclusion" and "credit" on dividends paid by "qualified American corporations."

The big "new" thing in the latest revision of the Federal tax code is the "taxpayer numbering system." That much-publicized arrangement will provide the Internal Revenue Service with a handy method of catching people who haven't been reporting these things.

Q. I have heard about "puts" and "calls" only recently I am considering buy a call on 100 shares of a well-known stock. If I do, will I be entitled to receive any dividends declared on those 100 shares between the time I buy the call and the time I exercise it?

A. Of course not. If you buy a call, you simply buy an option. That option gives you the right to buy the stock involved—usually at a fixed price within a specified period of time.

But you won't own the stock until you exercise the call option and buy the stock. Dividends are paid to the owners of stock. A call option does not entitle you to the dividend.

Q. People I know say that "puts" and "calls" are wonderfully inexpensive methods for getting into the stock market. Do you agree?

A. Inexpensive, compared to what? You pay money when you buy a put or a call—usually hundreds of dollars. However, that is less expensive than buying 100 shares of stock.

We won't go into all the technical aspects of playing with puts and calls here. Some very involved books have been written on this subject.

If things go right, you can make money as a result of the money you paid for the put or call. If things don't work out for you, you can lose—sometimes every dime you put up.

I can only repeat the words of wisdom from an astute veteran of the stock market: "Sure, you can make money on puts and calls—by writing them and selling them—not by buying them."

Q. The proxy statement I received from a company in which I own stock lists each of the officers and directors as owning certain number of shares of the company's stock "beneficially." What does beneficially mean in this context?

A. It means that each of those officers and directors actually owns the number of shares listed. The beneficial owner is the real owner. This applies even though some of the stock might be registered in some other name, such as in a "street name" at a brokerage house.

Monday, May 20, 1963

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Trends mixed. Bring order out of uncertainty through clear, concise analysis and like action. Schedule urgent tasks first. Emphasize system and optimism.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — A thorough reappraisal of recent weeks can become the basis for future highly improved planning. Don't stymie yourself through outmoded ideas, methods. Be progressive.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Evolve a system of checks and balances in rating past efforts. Social and economic changes are looming up, so be sagacious in planning to meet them. Strive to learn more, see all sides.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A broad new concept is developing which you should aim to understand. You cannot isolate yourself. Contact with people of bright, workable ideas will boost your morale.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Shy away from untried or unsubstantial propositions. An "impatient" majority or minority is anxious to move ahead BUT, how and when must be a consideration. Avoid trivia.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Hold to a well-ordered course. Some storm clouds brewing. Turn aside useless controversial issues, argument. Count ten before answering, acting. Keep emotions under stern control.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This day may be described as a duel between promise and performance. The effort expended and the direction taken will be deciding factors. Your all-around talents are due for recognition.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You can do much with this day if you make the most of your own qualifications and learning, and heed the wise counsel of others as well. No one thing alone will do the trick.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't coast downhill witlessly; there are conditions that could trip discomfort. IF you let them. Get all data and facts straight, and turn from argument wherever possible.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Manipulation, with discretion and veracity, the circumvention of errors and unnecessary discussions, and maintenance of your course will provide the recipe for a sound, forward-going day. Stress your adaptability.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — The cool-headed approach to financial matters will bring better returns than emotional ones. Invest only in sound ventures.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — On the last lap of a project one sometimes tends to be careless, heedless. Right up to the moment you stop what you are doing, keep mind, all faculties, on the job, alerted for pitfalls. In this way you will insure success.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your talents are many-sided and you can attain in a variety of ways. You are rarely stumped by a situation or an obstacle; are an eager, logically minded student, gentle, observing teacher. New events stimulate you, but you must train yourself to complete unfinished chores. Do not fear outcomes or take things too seriously, forgetting your priceless sense of humour. Laugh often, especially when you would criticize. Develop your novel plans-ideas; the day for their success will come. Birthdate: Honore de Balzac, novelist Jean L. Agassiz, naturalist.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Contributions may be made directly to Rev. W. Relyea MacLachlan, pastor of Mountainhome Methodist Church; Rev. John D. O'Neill, pastor of Canadensis Methodist Church, or Rev. Nathaniel Albee, pastor of Canadensis Moravian Church. Checks may be made payable to the Barrett Council of Churches and mailed in care of either minister.

It was the annual grid battle between the inter-boro rivals last year—Stroud Union and East Stroudsburg. It was a muddy day and the numbers on the uniforms soon became covered with layers of the mud only minutes after the game began. It was virtually impossible to identify the players by number.

There was one exception. Walter (Bud) Stann, a stellar lineman for Coach Jack Kist, capped a brilliant high school football career with a performance which will always linger in my memory.

Stann, did not need a number that day. His huge 240-pound frame, immersed in that muddy uniform, continuously broke through the Stroud Union line and spilled runner after runner. It was, undoubtedly, his finest performance. He proved himself a champion in that, his final scholastic game.

East Stroudsburg won the game, 14-0, But the whole story was Stann. He was the difference.

Then there was another night at East Stroudsburg State College during the winter. Pocono Mountain's Cardinals had just dropped a tough District 11 championship basketball playoff to Fountain Hill.

This was a sad ending for another sparkling school career in the life of Norbert Ryan who, along with his talented twin brother John, had led the team of Coach Harry Werkheiser into the district playoffs for the second straight year.

The jam-packed crowd had filed out of the gym as we were leaving. Standing by the front door was Norb, his head hung in dejection, with his brother by his side. It was not a happy scene. I walked over to the boys and said the only words that could be uttered: "You both played a great game . . . too bad it turned out that way."

But I , too, was somewhat unhappy that evening—unhappy for another reason. Probably never again will I see Norb — or his brother John — in a basketball uniform.

But the fact remains that Bud Stann and Norb Ryan provided me with the greatest thrills last year on the scholastic sports scene. They were champions in every sense of the word, both on and off the field of athletics.

These two fine lads today are the Brite Star winners of 1963—and no two finer boys ever took home such a trophy to start a showcase which is bound to grow.

Both Norb and Bud are the epitome of everything this award means — tops scholastically, stars athletically, and high morally. They are fierece competitors on the athletic fields and in the sports arenas, gentlemen always when out of uniform and true sportsmen in uniform.

There could not be a choice between boys for the annual top award for the year. And that is why precendent was broken — but certainly not set — this year. I doubt seriously if two boys in the Pocono-Slate Belt area will compare as closely again within the next 20 years, and probably not in the next 50.

Both were top athletes and top scholars. Both were members of the National Honor Society. Both participated in many extra-curricular activities. There was, in fact, only one difference I could ascertain between the two: Stann is going to West Point; Ryan to Annapolis.

And that difference was the same as the head and the tail on a quarter. Each side is worth as much as the other.

The Brite Star committee which made the selections held two separate meetings to decide whether to give two awards or only one—which is the way the program is set up. "There must be a difference somewhere between the two—now let's find it."

That was the thought all along.

And it was rather ironic, but certainly most appropriate, when Jim Nicolais, president of Brite Cleaners, climaxed the whole affair of Stann vs. Ryan at the banquet Saturday night by presenting the first trophy to the wrong boy.

It wasn't planned that way, but that's exactly the way it should have been.

S-burg Still Unbeaten

West End, Reeders A's PMBL Winners

THE Stroudsburg A's, West End and Reeders all won by big margins in yesterday's Pocono Mountain Baseball League games.

Stroudsburg remained undefeated with its fourth straight victory by crushing winless Saylorsburg, 19-5. West End blanked Bushkill, 10-0, behind the one-hit pitching of John Churetta, while Reeders gained its second win of the season, 12-3, over Bowmanstown.

Coach Dick Miller's S-burg club exploded for 11 runs in the third inning for an easy 19-5 win over the hapless Lakers of Saylorsburg who finished second last year in the PMBL but suffered their fourth straight setback this season.

A pair of home runs by Stroudsburg's Sommers were the big blows for the A's who took a 2-0 lead in the second and held a commanding 17-0 bulge before the Lakers tallied three runs in the sixth.

Barrow went the distance for the A's.

Mike Sommershuh, Bushkill's second baseman, spoiled Churetta's bid for a no-hitter for West End by stroking a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth.

The West Enders gave Churetta a 1-0 lead in the first inning, and that was all the lefty needed. But West End also came up with three more in the third, added another in the seventh and pushed across five more markers in the top of the ninth to complete the rout.

Reeders took a 5-0 lead over Bowmanstown after the first two innings of play and led all the way to gain another easy triumph by a 12-3 count. Carl Besecker went the route for the winners while his teammates lambasted three Bowmanstown hurlers for a total of 17 hits.

Yanks Split Pair

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees shelled Bo Belinsky for eight runs in the first two innings and clouted the Los Angeles Angels 10-4 for a split of their doubleheader. Home runs by Albie Pearson and rookie Bob Perry powered the Angels to a 6-2 first game victory.

The Yanks lost little time in dealing Belinsky his seventh loss in eight decisions, battering the celebrated left-hander for seven hits in the first two turns at bat.

Supported by the homers from Pearson and Perry, Ken McBride beat the Yanks for the fifth straight time in the opener with a seven-hitter.

Pearson, the smallest player in the majors at 5-foot 5½, connected in the third inning off Whitey Ford with two on and Perry homered in the sixth with one aboard, also against Ford.

Dodgers Near 1st; Trim Mets Twice

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Frank Howard's 13th inning homer gave Los Angeles a 4-2 second game triumph over the New York Mets Sunday after the Dodgers had squeezed out a 1-0 victory in the opener of a doubleheader behind the two-hit pitching of Sandy Koufax.

The doubleheader sweep moved the Dodgers to within one game of the National League leading San Francisco Giants, who split a twinbill with Philadelphia.

The Dodgers now have won six straight and 11 of their last 13.

In the opener, Koufax picked up his sixth victory in seven decisions and his fifth in a row. The only New York runner to get beyond first base was losing pitcher Roger Craig, who was stranded on third after leading off the sixth with a single.

The only other hit off Koufax was a bloop single to right center by Ron Hunt in the fourth.

The Dodgers got the only run of the game in the first inning. Jim Gilliam walked with one out, took third on a single by Ron Fairly and scored on a sacrifice fly by Tom Davis.

Lancaster Loses Hold In Track

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Lancaster's six-year hold on the class A district 3 PIAA track championship was broken Saturday along with two meet records as Steelton-Highspire high school took the title.

Lou Sims of Steelton bettered one record with a time of 19.1 seconds in the 180-yard low hurdles, and the 880-yard relay team broke another, running the half-mile in one minute, 30.8 seconds.

Leukemia Research

One More Battle For Ernie Davis

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ernie Davis will fight another battle against the deadly blood disease that took his life, through the Ernie Davis Foundation for leukemia research.

Arthur B. Modell, president of the Cleveland Browns, said a few hours after the 23-year-old Davis' death Saturday that the club would make a substantial contribution to start such a project.

Davis, an All-America halfback at Syracuse University and the nation's greatest collegiate football player of 1961, passed away peacefully at Lakeside Hospital after a 13-month fight against acute leukemia. He was under sedation at the end.

Funeral Wednesday

The body of the only Negro to win the Heisman Trophy as college football's outstanding player was shipped to his home town of Elmira, N.Y. Funeral services will be conducted there at 1 p.m. EST, Wednesday in the Monumental Baptist Church with interment in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Davis was signed to a 3-year contract for $80,000, including a $15,000 bonus, by the Browns. But he was felled by the blood ailment last July at the College All-Star camp and never played a game in the National Football League.

But his number 45 never will be worn by another Cleveland player, said Modell. "That was the uniform number we gave Ernie and it will be retired."

"Courage is a corny word in sports," said Modell. "But Ernie had more courage than anybody I've ever met and it wasn't corny at all in his case. It will be a long time before we see a boy like Ernie Davis again."

"Terrible Shock"

In Elmira, Davis' mother, Mrs. Arthur Radford, said the death was a "terrible shock" and that she was numbed by the loss of her only son. His father is dead.

Modell said Davis' mother had asked that instead of flowers, contributions should be sent to Western Reserve University Hospitals in Cleveland for its leukemia research projects.

Although Davis' condition was not discovered until Aug. 1, doctors now feel sure he first was afflicted in April, 1962. Three months of treatment with traditional drugs brought the disease into a state of remission, meaning it was arrested temporarily.

The 100 per cent remission lasted for almost six months. During that period, Ernie underwent a conditioning program in hopes that he would be able to play in some games for the Browns.

It was at this point that Modell and then head coach Paul Brown disagreed on the possible role of Davis with the Browns. Modell, with backing of doctors, felt Davis should work out with the team and be readied for possible game action. Brown's judgment told him a man with leukemia shouldn't play pro football.

Fired Brown

Brown prevailed and that decision was a contributing factor in his being fired as head coach and general manager by Modell in January.

Dr. Austin S. Weisberger, a prominent blood specialist and Davis' personal physician during his long illness, said his particular disease — acute monocytic leukemia is the worst of all the forms of leukemia.

"There are many kinds of leukemia and persons can live a normal life with it," the doctor said. "I know one person who lived with it for 38 years."

It was Davis' great constitution, his spirit and unflagging desire to play pro football that kept him going during his ordeal, the doctor said.

"Up until the final two days, Ernie functioned in a completely normal manner," Dr. Weisberger said. "He drove his car, worked, played golf, went bowling and did everything without pain until he entered the hospital for the last time Thursday afternoon."

Fairfield Winner In Open

By NORMAN ROWLAND

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Don Fairfield birdied the 18th hole at Quail Creek Country Club Sunday and won the $35,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament by one stroke over Julius Boros with an 8-under-par 72-hole total 280.

Fairfield hit the green 30 feet from the pin on his second shot on the par 5 hole, and two-putted for the victory. His first putt was about four feet short, but he shrugged off the pressure and sank the crucial second putt.

Fairfield won $5,300 for the triumph, his first tournament win in almost three years.

The 33-year-old Illinois pro finished the tournament in a rush, posting a 4-under-par 68 in the third round to take the lead, and coming back Sunday in threatening weather to card a 3-under-par 69 and beat off Boros' strong rally.

A thundershower delayed play for about 45 minutes Sunday morning and intermittent light rain fell during the afternoon.

Boros, who had only three bogeys during the tournament over the 7,050-yard, par 36-36—72 course, won $3,400 second money.

Fairfield, who said Saturday he thought it would take a 280 to win, said he used a 6 iron on his approach to No. 18 after driving long off the tee.

"I choked a little on my first putt," he said, "but I made sure on the second one and rammed it in hard."

Foyt Qualifies At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex., 1961 winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile race, qualified Sunday for his sixth start in the rich Memorial Day event with the second-fastest speed ever made in the 10-mile trials.

Phillies, Giants Divide, 3-0, 6-5

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Felipe Alou's leadoff homer in the last of the ninth inning, his eighth of the season, gave the National League leading San Francisco Giants a 6-5 second game victory and a doubleheader split with Philadelphia Sunday.

The Phillies won the opener 3-0 as Cal McLish limited the Giants to five hits.

The Giants took a 5-3 lead in the fifth with a four-run inning capped by Ed Bailey's homer with two on. But the Phils narrowed the gap with a run in the sixth and drew even in the top of the ninth on a single and error followed by Jim Lemon's pinch double.

Alou, who broke out of a week-long slump when he singled in the first gam for his first hit in 23 at-bats, blasted the first pitch off reliever Ryne Duren for the clincher. Bob Bolin was the winner in relief.

White Sox, Baltimore Split Two

BALTIMORE (AP)—Pete Ward, whose error paved the way for a Baltimore victory in the first game, sent the winning run home in the second game with a 13th inning triple as Chicago earned a split with the Orioles in Sunday's doubleheader. The scores of both games were 4-3.

John Orsino, who knocked in all of Baltimore's runs and snapped Ray Herbert's streak of consecutive scoreless innings at 38 with a third inning homer, sent the game into overtime with a run-scoring single off reliever Jim Brosnan. Brosnan had just come on for Herbert with two out in the ninth.

In the opener, Robin Roberts pitched a five-hitter for the Orioles and became the 15th pitcher in major league history to record more than 2,000 career strikeouts.

Roberts whiffed Chicago pitcher Juan Pizarro in the third inning to reach the magic mark. The 36-year-old right-hander later struck out two more.

Dual Award Winners

Stann, Ryan Brite Stars

By KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two athletes whose exploits in the scholastic arenas equalled their high academic standings were co-winners of the annual Brite Star of the Year award for 1963.

Walter (Bud) Stann of East Stroudsburg High School and Norbert Ryan of Pocono Mountain High School were the double award winners at the fifth annual fete Saturday evening in the East Stroudsburg State College dining hall. It was the first time a dual award was offered since the Brite Star program was inaugurated five years ago.

Jim Nicolais, president of Brite Cleaners, made the trophy presentations.

Academy Appointees

Ryan, who will attend the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, was an outstanding athlete for the Cardinals of Pocono Mountain in basketball and baseball. He led the team in scoring during his four years in high school in basketball and was an instrumental figure — along with his twin brother, John — in leading the team into the District 11 championship playoffs the last two years. He also chalked up a 5-0 record in baseball as a pitcher during the 1962 campaign when the Cards were undefeated in regular-season play.

Stann, who has accepted an appointment to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, was a four-letter winner in football and was co-captain of last season's Cavalier team. The stellar 240-pound lineman also won two letters in wrestling and track and was undefeated as a heavyweight in dual meet competition on the mats.

He also was selected last year by the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Football Foundation for the scholar-athlete award.

Both boys were members of the National Honor Society and participated in many extra-curricular activities. Stann was president of his senior class and a member of the school's student council and athletic council. Ryan was a member of the school's champion debating team, served on the Pocono Mountain newspaper staff and was a member of the student council.

Ryan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert R. Ryan of Mountainhome, and Stann is the son of Maj. and Mrs. Walter A. Stann of Lake Valhalla, East Stroudsburg.

Special awards also were presented to John Eiler, coach of the East Stroudsburg State College NAIA soccer champions, and to Jack Gregory, coach of the ESSC football team which last year won the eastern division championship of the Pennsylvania State Colleges Football Conference.

Dr. Eugene Powers, head of the ESSC education department, delivered a brief but power-packed speech which received a standing ovation from the audience.

Speaking principally to the 26 Brite Star athletes of the past school year, Dr. Powers told the group to "Take this moment in the sun, but don't live in it."

Emphasizing his point, he declared, "Yesterday is dead . . . There never was a day so good as tomorrow.

"Move out of the shadow of the spotlight, go into the wings and take advantage of bigger and better opportunities," he advised. "Forget the good old days."

He also noted that "Anybody who wants to do away with athletics is living in a perverse manner."

Comparing the athletic fields to battlegrounds in war, he said "It certainly does matter whether we win or lose . . . and any coach who goes out on the field and doesn't care, doesn't belong there.

"Work Hard"

"If Eisenhower didn't care whether we won or lost during World War II," he said, "he would never have become president of the United States because he and his troops would have been wiped out."

Referring to a famous remark by Leo Durocher, former manager of the then New York Giants, Dr. Powers said, "Nice guys don't have to finish last, but they have to work just as hard as the bad guys to be first."

"We cannot espouse mediocrity," he concluded, "because we would become a lazy, indolent society."

Bob Clark, city editor of The Daily Record, was toastmaster of the affair. Preliminary remarks were made by Mayor Thomas Kistler of East Stroudsburg and Dr. LeRoy Koehler, president of ESSC.

The Rev. William Cusick of Mt. Pocono Catholic Mission delivered the invocation, and the benediction was offered by the Rev. Frank Wingerter of the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bonus rookie Bill Faul of Detroit held the Washington Senators to three hits Sunday in his first major league start, pitching the Tigers to a 5-1 victory.

The 23-year-old right-hander from Cincinnati did not permit a hit until two were out in the fourth inning, when Ken Retzer singled.

Jim King collected Washington's next hit, a one-out single in the ninth after a walk to Chuck Hinton, and Hinton scored the Senators' lone run on a force out. Marv Breeding then singled for the last hit against Faul.

Faul struck out six and walked four. The loser was Dave Stenhouse.

Bob Friend Tops Colts For Pirates

The Pirates cashed in their first run off fast balling Dick Farrell in the fourth inning when Bob Skinner singled with two out, stole second, and came the rest of the way on Bill Mazeroski's single.

Smoky Burgess' double and a single by Bob Bailey added another Pittsburgh run in the fifth, Mazeroski singled across two more against Don McMahon in the eighth, and Donn Clendenon homered in the ninth.

Large Stalls Readied At Monticello

MONTICELLO, N. Y. — Two of the largest stables on the grounds when Monticello Raceway opens for its sixth season of harness racing on Thursday, May 30, could be those of Gene Daisey and John Edmunds.

The two young drivers, both currently competing at Yonkers' spring meeting, have received stall confirmations for 20 horses apiece. Their presence at Monticello, for the Sullivan County track's 101-date stand through Sept. 21, could have a definite bearing on the driving championship.

The 25-year-old Daisey, a successful campaigner at the Mighty M a year age, got off to a fast start at Yonkers this spring with a 10-13-5 record for 66 outings.

Daisey's string was enlarged recently when the locally-owned Hihanjo Stables of Woodridge, turned over six horses to him. Heading that group is Porter Hanover, a six-year-old Tar Heel pacer with a 2:02.2 mark on a half-mile oval.

Marty Parker (2:05.3), Layaway (2:06.2), Creedson (2:07), Miss Margaret M. (2:07), and Honor Up (2:07) are the other additions from Hihanjo.

Daisey's old standbys from last season, Tarquinia, April Discovery, and Ju Lynn, are the most reliable horses in his barn.

Ju Lynn has been setting the pace this spring and has already banked around $5,000. The eight-year-old pacer has recorded three wins, three seconds, and one third in 10 early trips to the post.

April Discovery ranks second with a 2-2-1 chart for nine outings. Fitchett's Filly, Ludlow Hanover, Dolly Scott, and Val Hadley round out the list of top stock in Daisey's stable.

Candy Spots' Owners Predict Belmont Win

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Candy Spots, the pride of the West, was back on top Sunday in the battle for 3-year-old racing honors and his owners predicted he'd wrap them up by winning the Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct June 8.

The Belmont, third and final jewel in the sport's Triple Crown, is run over the 1½-mile distance, five-sixteenths longer than the Preakness, which the flyer from the Pacific Coast won so impressively Saturday.

"If the Belmont distance makes any difference, I'd expect it to help our horse," said Meshach Tenney, trainer and partner of California's Rex Ellsworth, the owner.

Even the trainers of Candy Spots' chief rivals, Chateaugay and Never Bend, didn't seem very hopeful of taking the initiative away from the California bullet.

Jimmy Conway, whose Chateaugay upset Candy Spots in the Kentucky Derby but finished 3½ lengths back of him for second in the Preakness, refused to enter any alibis for the defeat.

"How are you going to beat the best horse?" Conway said, "No, I don't think Chateaugay stopped running any part of it. He came up to Candy Spots and couldn't get him. He was extending himself right to the wir—running his best."

Never Bend's trainer, Woody Stephens, commented wryly:

"Well, it looks like Jimmy (Conway) and I got lucky beating that horse at Louisville. That win Saturday was very impressive. I'll train Never Bend now for the Belmont."

Candy Spots, who trailed both Chateaugay and Never Bend in the Kentucky Derby, ran away from them both in the Preakness at Pimlico before a crowd of 35,-263.

3½ Lengths

Steered by Jockey Willie Shoemaker, Candy Spots came home 3½ lengths ahead of John W. Galbreath's Chateaugay, with Never Bend, the 1962 champion 2-year-old, another 4½ lengths back.

Ellsworth and Tenney plan to keep their horse in the East and will take a crack at the $100,000 Jersey Derby at Garden State May 30 before running in the Belmont.

Of the eight horses which run in the $180,000 Preakness, apparently only the big three—Candy Spots, Chateaugay and Never Bend — will go for the Belmont. Chateaugay may face Candy Spots again in the Jersey Derby.

Davis Enjoyed Sports Lights

(Editor's note: The following excerpts from a column by Sandy Grady of the Philadelphia Bulletin were made available to The Associated Press. They are a poignant account of a visit by football star Ernie Davis, who died of leukemia Saturday, to Philadelphia in 1961.)

By SANDY GRADY
The Philadelphia Bulletin

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The quick, hot light of sports fame can blind a young guy. Some endorse it. Some flee it. Som turn cranky and bitter in the glare. I have never met one who enjoyed his brief excursion in light more than Ernie Davis.

When he walked into the Sheraton Hotel lobby here on a December afternoon in 1961, Davis was the focus of a happy tumult that few college men create. He was not merely All-America, but the first of his race to win the Heisman Trophy.

For three days he had been applauded, televised, interviewed in New York with the intensity given to spaceship riders. President Kennedy had asked to meet him. Pros pursued him, $40,000 contracts a-flutter in their hands.

Identifiable

Lithe, bull-shouldered in the blue Syracuse blazer, beaming—curious how you remember his vitality made him instantly identifiable among 50 other players—Davis drew shoals of back-slappers and autograph hounds. He was in town for the Liberty Bowl. No one knew it then, but he was at the apex of the joyous idolatry. Upstairs the telephone rang a concerto, people calling from Cleveland and Washington, all ironically wanting to know about Davis' future.

"No, all this is no chore to me," he said. "I enjoy it. I know it's only going to happen once."

Ernie Davis never stopped smiling that weekend, except for those minutes he was pounding across the frozen stadium tundra to help beat Miami, 15-14. "He must smile in his sleep," wrote one witness. "It is the half-surprised, amused, secret smile of a man aware that something immensely pleasant will happen to him."

Tin Prose

Like any All-America, Davis had a mountain of blather written about him, and this department contributed its share of tin prose. From that pleasant Liberty Bowl week-end in 1961, there is left a clipping that began:

"Anybody can be born unlucky. Some are born rich. A very few are born gifted. But for anybody who ran a football across the autumn backyards in his ripped-pants youth, or sweated through endless pushups with a high school JV team, it seemed far more worthwhile today to be Ernie Davis."

A narrow view, maybe, but one that was surely shared by Ernie Davis, Saturday morning, in Cleveland, he died. The only good journeys are not the longest ones.

Pascual Tells Youngsters: Throw Curve

By CAMILO PASCUAL
Written for AP Newsfeatures

I've heard a lot people advising youngsters not to throw the curve ball until they grow up. I don't know about that. I've been throwing a curve ball since I was seven or eight years old in Cuba.

I played junior league ball down there when I was 14 and I threw a lot of curves. When you work on one pitch a lot you get to the point where it comes to you very easy later on.

When I first came to the big leagues I was lacking control. I got a lot of help from fellows like Joe Haynes and Boom Boom Beck who used to be a coach for the Washington Senators.

This spring I worked a lot with our pitching coach Gordon Maltzberger. Last year we worked on my control and how to move the ball around to different spots.

Throw Curve

I think that if a youngster has pretty good control he should learn to throw a curve ball. You see, when he gets to the age of about 14 or 15 it might be hard for him to start curving the ball.

I see no harm in a boy 8 or 10 years old trying to get the ball to spin for a slow curve ball. Naturally when his arm gets stronger he can throw the curve ball with more speed.

Starting early will help his coordination of the curve ball.

I reported early to camp this spring because there is no winter ball in Cuba and I'm living in Miami. When I pitched winter ball in Cuba there was no hury on my part to reach spring training. I already was in shape. This past winter I did nothing strenuous so I had to get to camp early to get my arm and legs in shape.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Camilo Pascual, in his ninth major league season, won 20 games for Minnesota in 1962. He has led the American League in strikeouts the last two years and is known for his curve ball

Reds Rout Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jerry Lynch and Frank Robinson each drove in three runs, leading Cincinnati in another assault on St. Louis pitchers and giving the Reds a 10-6 victory Sunday.

Cincinnati bunched four straight hits off loser Bob Gibson in the first, including a double by Lynch and a single by Robinson that led to a 4-0 lead.

When the Cards later tied the score off winning pitcher Joe Nuxhall, a double by Vada Pinson and Robinson's sacrifice fly broke the deadlock.

Lynch's two-run double and a run-producing single by Robinson were the only hits in a five-run sixth that clinched the contest, played in an intermittent drizzle after the third inning.

WHEN DO YOU PASS A SCHOOL BUS?

TWO- OR THREE-LANE HIGHWAYS

When a school bus has stopped, either on the highway or on the shoulder adjacent to the highway, with flashing signals, to load or unload children, ALL traffic must stop. Stop must be made not less than 10 feet from the stationary school bus.

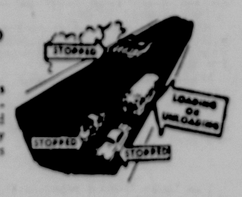

SCHOOL FAR-SIDE

If a school bus is stopped on the opposite side of a street or highway (with flashing signal) from a school building, loading or unloading children, traffic moving in both directions must stop at least 10 feet from the school bus.

FOUR-LANE (or more) HIGHWAYS—NOT DIVIDED

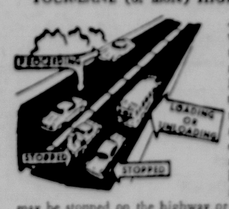

Same requirements as TWO LANE HIGHWAYS. An undivided highway is a highway with paint line markings only.

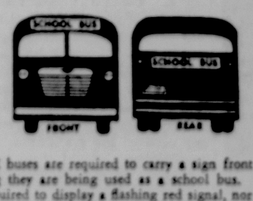

PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION LICENSED BUSES

Section 840 of the Vehicle Code authorizes buses licensed by the Public Utility Commission (buses that are used for other than exclusively transporting school children) to be used on a school bus basis, provided they are properly identified.

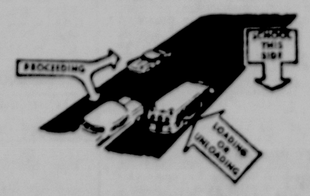

FOUR-LANE (or more) HIGHWAYS—DIVIDED

A divided highway is one with something other than a painted line separating opposing traffic lanes. On a highway of this type, motorists on the same side of the divider and traveling in the same direction as the bus, are required to stop when the bus is loading or unloading children. The bus may be stopped on the highway or on the shoulder adjacent to the highway with flashing signals. Traffic proceeding in the opposite direction, on the other side of the divider, may proceed at a speed not exceeding 15 miles per hour.

The PUC buses are required to carry a sign front and rear indicating they are being used as a school bus. They are NOT required to display a flashing red signal, nor be painted chrome yellow. Since these PUC buses cannot be identified by color or flashing signals, it is important that the motorist be extra careful to avoid not recognizing them as school buses.

SCHOOL NEAR-SIDE

If a school bus is stopped in front of a school building and is loading or unloading children on the same side of the street or highway as the school building, the motorists traveling in either direction may proceed at a speed not in excess of 15 miles per hour.

PENALTIES

Under the Pennsylvania Schedule of Suspensions and Revocations, the penalties that apply for illegally passing a school bus while loading or unloading (Sect. 1018) are:

First Offense—One (1) month
Second Offense—Two (2) months
Third Offense—Three (3) months
Fourth Offense—Four (4) months
Fifth Offense—Six (6) months
Sixth Offense—Eight (8) months

(Violations remain as part of an operator's record for three years).

Tighter Crop Control Plan Up For Vote

CHICAGO (AP) — Tuesday's farmer referendum on whether to adopt a tighter wheat crop control program will settle one of the sharpest battles ever waged for growers' votes.

At stake is the Kennedy administration's proposal for a 1964 acreage allotment program which could cut plantings by 10 per cent, establish a two-price support system and sharpen enforcement provisions.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that more than 1½ million farmers are eligible to vote. The program requires a two-thirds majority for approval.

The goal of the government control program is to bring about a substantial reduction in surplus production of wheat, a chronic problem of plenty which requires vast, costly storage and threatens the price of wheat.

The government's wheat control program, which provides a guaranteed floor for prices paid to growers, cost more than $1 billion in federal funds last year.

The proposed 1964 regulations are strongly opposed by the American Farm Bureau Federation, largest and most powerful of the farm organizations.

Arrayed in favor of the program with the government are the National Grange, the National Farmers Union and the National Farmers Organization.

Both camps have done strenuous electioneering among the wheat growers. The federation's president, Charles H. Shuman, argues that the program gives the secretary of agriculture too much control over farming, won't work any better than controls have in the past, and opens the door for similar government clampdowns on other producing areas such as livestock and dairy products.

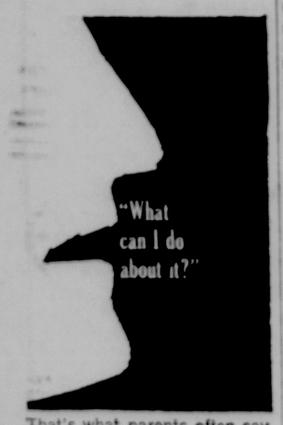

Those who are pressing for passage predict that a negative vote would soon production and drop the government support level from $2 to $1 a bushel with disastrous results to the 600,000 large growers.

For the first time, a significant factor in this year's referendum is the eligibility of growers raising fewer than 15 acres of wheat—around one million of them.

Passage by Congress last week of a two-year extension of the government's feed grains support program might influence Tuesday's vote toward acceptance of the wheat proposal because it indicates the pattern of modest support which could follow rejection.

The proposal being weighed would reduce the 1964 crop acreage from 5 million to 49½ million acres. Eighty per cent of the crop of every producer would go for domestic food use under a price guarantee of $2. The remainder, for livestock feed and other non-food uses would be supported at $1.30 a bushel.

In addition, a farmer who retires a portion of his former wheat acreage allotment from production would be paid by the government. Violation of the regulations would subject offenders to a fine or a jail sentence.

That's what parents often say when told about the decline in our children's physical fitness. To be sure, parents can't assume full responsibility for this problem. But parents should see to it that their children get proper health care—and that physical fitness isn't neglected in schools.

Urge your local school officials to provide a physical education program that calls for at least 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day for all girls and boys.

A basic program has been developed that is improving the fitness of our children. It is easy to administer in any school. It costs little to get it started. It can improve any child's physical fitness.

If you'd like to know more about this program, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Even The Kremlin Changes Its Mind

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda suggested Sunday the Kremlin has changed its mind on what constitutes the greatest danger to world communism: Red Chinese dogmatism and sectarianism rather than Yugoslav revisionism.

Roughly translated, this may mean Kremlin leaders have decided that the somewhat independent course of President Tito's Yugoslav brand of communism isn't so bad as Red China's stand that Communists should set off violent revolutions to attain world supremacy.

Up until recently, the revisionism of Tito has been branded the main danger to world communism. But Premier Khrushchev and Tito—called a traitor by Red China—smoothed over their differences in December and re-established close relations.

In the meantime, Red China's split with the Kremlin over Communist ideology has widened.

Thus an attack on dogmatism and sectarianism in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party organ, appeared to carry great significance—if it is not a milestone—in the Soviet-Chinese ideological dispute.

The paper carried a report on last week's plenum of the French Communist party's Central Committee. It met in France after the return from Moscow of top French Communist leaders and adopted a resolution saying:

"Dogmatism and sectarianism, not wishing to see the new features of the current stage of struggle, has become the main danger in the international Communist movement."

This resolution appeared to be the result of a Kremlin policy decision to point the way, ideologically.

Tito said in Belgrade on Saturday he intended to improve relations with Moscow and with the West. He assailed the Red Chinese as war-seekers and charged that Peking's attacks on Yugoslavia stemmed from what he called Yugoslavia's prestige among nonaligned nations. Tito said Yugoslavia would fully support the Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence with the West and asserted Chinese errors were of "Himalayan" proportions.

India Votes On National Traditions

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Voters cast ballots in two parliamentary by-elections Sunday after campaigns which have exposed an evil at the heart of Indian democracy.

The contest will be decided mainly on the basis of the religion of the voters and the candidates and their place in the Hindu caste system.

The Congress party of Prime Minister Nehru, who denounced traditional thinking along religious and caste lines as a negation of democracy, has taken a lead in exploiting traditional prejudices.

In one by-election Nehru appealed to voters to support his party candidate "to strengthen Congress ideals." The Indian press has expressed opinions that Congress and other parties have compromised these ideals in the elections.

There has been some discussion of national issues, though no local ones. What counts is religion and narrow caste loyalties.

Despite efforts by Mohandas K. Gandhi and others, the rural masses still consider themselves as belonging to a particular group. Parties usually nominate a candidate from the subcaste that is the largest in the constituency. Power struggles within Congress parties at state levels usually are along caste lines.

In the background is India's bloody history of religious violence, especially clashes between Hindus and Moslems and Sikhs that took perhaps a million lives in 1947 and the many smaller clashes that have torn villages apart since then. India now is trying to live down this past but the by-elections opened old wounds.

The situation is most clearly shown at Amroha, where two political warhorses in their mid-70s are battling. One is J. B. Kripalani, an independent and disciple of Gandhi. He lost to leftist former Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon last year in a clash billed as a fight between the center-right and the pro-Communist.

After Kripalani began to appear a strong candidate, a Hindu member of the Congress party was persuaded to stand down and at the last minute the Indian minister of irrigation and power, Hafiz Mohammad Ibrahim, was nominated to contest the seat.

In Amroha, 38 per cent of the population is Moslem and Ibrahim is the top Moslem in the government. Though untouchability is now legally abolished, the thinking of the people has not changed much and Congress has sent the highest-ranking untouchable, Jagjivan Ram, minister of transport and communications, to campaign for Ibrahim in Amroha, where 22 per cent of the population are untouchables.

Results of the elections are expected by Tuesday.

Berks County Cleanup Race

READING, Pa. (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., says it's a race between U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and State Atty. Gen. Walter Alessandroni to see who will be the first to clean up Berks County.

Clark spoke his mind at a testimonial dinner recently at which he backed two Berk County independent Democrats who are opposing party regulars in this month's primary election.

He said that what the U. S. attorney general is doing to rid Berks of crime is being done also in other parts of the country, with President Kennedy's approval.

Clark said this drive against wrongdoing, which inciudes a housecleaning the 'democratic party itself, is the opener in the capaign to renominate President Kennedy.

Laotian Troops Exchange Fire

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Neutralist and pro-Communist Laotian forces in the Plaine des Jarres area exchanged intermittent mortar and artillery fire Sunday for the fifth consecutive day.

There were no reports of casualties or of ground clashes between Gen. Kong Le's neutralist troops and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao. Diplomats in Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital, expressed fear, however, that continued fighting might block efforts to salvage Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma's coalition government.

Chinese Reds Assail Sukarno

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Nationalist Chinese government assailed President Sukarno on Sunday for the current anti-Chinese riots in Indonesia.

Kao Hsin, chairman of the Nationalists' Overseas Chinese Affairs Commission, demanded in a broadcast beamed toward Indonesia. But there appeared little the Nationalists could do because the Sukarno government does not recognize the Taipei regime.

In Jakarta, Sukarno blamed the Indonesian attacks on the relatively prosperous Chinese residents as the work of the outlawed Socialist and right-wing Moslem Masjumi parties, Sumatran and Celebes rebels and unnamed "foreign subversives." He urged Indonesians to prevent a repetition of the incidents, which have claimed at least three lives.
